Abolish Regime Of Dalai Lama

Reds Impose Martial Law On Tibet

TOKYO (AP) — Red China Saturday abolished the Dalai Lama's regime in Tibet, elevated the rival Panchen Lama in his stead, and imposed military rule on the rebellious Himalayan land.

Peiping asserted the revolt that had erupted March 19 was crushed in two days and that 4,000 rebels were captured. But Red China acknowledged that rebel bands are still fighting in various parts of the land of the lamas. Peiping asserted these bands are being mopped up.

Broadcasts from the capital of Red China asserted the 23-year-old Dalai Lama had been abducted by the rebels and "under duress" tore up the 1951 treaty with Red China under which he had been allowed to retain nominal rule.

This tended to bear out reports from India and elsewhere that the Dalai Lama had escaped from Lhasa, the capital, and had joined the rebels, probably in southern Tibet.

Presumably, the Dalai Lama is with the fierce Kampa tribal warriors, who from positions in southern Tibet have been fighting the Chinese Reds for three years.

The Panchen Lama last was reported at his religious headquarter-ters at Shigatse, southwest of Lhasa. He is considered the spiritual equal of the Dalai Lama but traditionally wields no temporal power. He generally has been considered more compliant toward the Communists than the Dalai Lama.

Nationalist China airdropped supplies to the rebels in their stronghold south of the Tsangpo River, Peiping said, thus supporting Chinese Nationalists' claims that they have been aiding the rebels. The Tsangpo River flows south of Lhasa.

Trouble broke out, Peiping said, after the Dalai Lama had been expected to attend a theatrical performance in the auditorium of the Tibetan military command. Accounts from Tibetans reaching India have said the Dalai Lama had been ordered by the Red Chinese without his companions to come and this raised fears for his safety among his followers.

Peiping said "the rebellious Tibetan clique spread wild rumors alleging that the army units of the Tibetan military area command would detain the Dalai Lama and by using this rumor as a pretext, staged armed rebellion, put the Dalai Lama under duress, and raised such reactionary slogans as 'Independence for Tibet.'"

Sandbaggers Watch Dikes At McConnell

FREERPORT, Ill. (AP) — The surging Pecatonica River mounted toward a 17-foot crest at Freerport Saturday — 4 feet above flood stage — while volunteer sandbaggers kept watch on a dike holding back more waters from tiny, partly-flooded McConnell eight miles north.

Sunny, blue skies which dominated the state Saturday and a forecast of rainless, partly cloudy, and warmer weather for Easter Sunday indicated the swollen stream would reach its crest early Sunday, the Weather Bureau said.

Cool readings in the high 30s and low 40s accompanied Saturday's clear skies. Temperatures in the 50s were predicted for Sunday.

Recent rains at Freerport and melting snow further north boosted the Pecatonica to 16.94 feet by 5:15 p.m. Saturday, second highest flood level in the city's history. The highest was 17 feet in 1937.

Local officials said the stream apparently was holding at 16.54 feet and they expressed hope the river would rise no higher.

Forty blocks on the east side of the city are flooded. Forty persons have been forced to leave their homes and seek emergency shelter provided at the National Guard armory.

High waters also have flooded hundreds of acres of lowlands sending an unestimated number of farmers and residents to stay with friends or relatives. Three big manufacturing plants have been forced to shut down.

Volunteer sandbaggers at McConnell worked through Friday night to reinforce a dike there. Stephenson County Sheriff Alvin Stine said their efforts apparently were successful.

Two feet of water in the seven-store downtown district brought business to a standstill. Bursting of the dike would send an additional 3 feet of water into the business area, Stine said, and could affect a few residences.

Some of the 350 population moved to friends on higher ground as a precautionary measure, Stine added.

Water 2 feet deep also stood in the business area of Winslow 18 miles north of Freerport.

Floodwaters still blocked U.S. 20 east of Freerport. Traffic moved over State Route 75, but at a slow crawl, since the detour road was covered with 4 to 6 inches of water late Saturday.

EASTER

The age-old custom of "dressing up" for Easter Sunday is but the external aspect of something that lies very deep in the human heart. Instinctively, we recognize that Easter Sunday is indeed a very special time of the year. Most of all, we are filled with wonder and joy at the bright promise of spiritual rebirth that the Day reaffirms. Nature, itself, burgeoning everywhere into its annual reawakening, beautifully symbolizes the miracle of the Resurrection. And, as we join the Easter parade to church, we are deeply conscious of the resurgence of all that is most precious and most meaningful in our lives.

Worshippers Invited To Bring Shovels To Bald Knob Services

ALTO PASS, Ill. (AP) — Travelers from a seven-state area headed toward southern Illinois Saturday to herald the Easter down in sunrise services on the summit of Bald Knob hill.

Everyone was invited to bring a shovel for symbolic ground breaking ceremonies marking the start of a huge cross on the 1,030-foot hill.

The Weather Bureau at Cairo predicted a chilly and partly cloudy sunrise.

As in previous years, many of the expected 4,000 to 6,000 attending will drive all night to be at the service. Early arrivals sleep in cars or tents on the wooded hilltop.

An annual event since 1937, the service was the idea of Wayman Presley, rural mail carrier from nearby Makanda, and the Rev. W. H. Lively of the Goreville First Methodist Church.

About 250 persons attended the first year and the next year there was a crowd of 2,500. Since then crowds have ranged from 3,000 to 12,000. In 1941, many of whom were turned away that year for lack of parking space.

Last year's service was held to about 3,000 because of rainy weather.

When the 111-foot cross is finished, it will mark the fulfillment of an idea Presley advanced in 1946.

His original plan called for a 12-story structure with rooms and elevators.

For financial reasons it was scaled down and the cross will be shorter and stronger. It will have a 600-ton concrete base as protection from buffeting winds.

Land and construction contracts have taken $170,000 of the $175,000 donated over the years for the cross after nationwide appeals. Presley said $60,000 still is needed to put floodlights around the cross and cover it with white paint.

The research was directed by Dr. Kenneth Scott of the University of California medical school. They were made public by the California division of the American Cancer Society.

Uncovering the cancer cell's growth secret required the researchers to make their way through an unusually complicated biochemical maze.

First they noted that cancer cells are greedy for iodine. They get it out of the blood stream, diverting it from its normal target, the thyroid gland. They also get it by breaking up thyroid hormone.

Then the investigators found out what the cancer cells do with the iodine. They use it to build a protein-like substance, an iodine-containing polypeptide.

This polypeptide attacks and disintegrates most cells, which are normal body types. From the disintegration products the cancer cells get their food.

Women at the Alto Pass Congregational Church and Boy Scouts from nearby Jonesboro were busy preparing for Sunday's service.

The church will remain open to visitors all night, serving coffee and doughnuts. Scouts will pass among crowds on the hilltop with coffee.

Direct radio broadcasts of the service start at 6 a.m. from an open air pavilion about 200 feet from the summit. Parking for 1,500 cars is provided this year in an improved parking lot.

After the service, Presley will move to the top of the hill and signal for the start of ground breaking.

"The cross is a dream come true," he said.

Thousands planned to attend special services in other parts of the state.

At Red Hill State Park in Lawrence County, worshippers gathered beneath a 96-foot lighted cross for the 16th annual service there.

The 14th annual Williams Hill service was scheduled in Shawnee National Forest, 17 miles south of Harrisburg.

At Decatur, some 5,000 persons were expected to attend the annual sunrise service in Nelson Park, overlooking Lake Decatur.

In the Chicago area, the Arlington Park race course grandstand in the northwest suburb was the setting for one daybreak service while others were set in drive-in theaters.

The tower at the Conrad Hilton Hotel was to be the vantage point for still other worshippers in Chicago.

A chill early morning with temperatures in the 30s was predicted by the Weather Bureau.

Allied Unity Meet To Open Tuesday

U.S. To Urge German Unity As Top Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to urge its European allies here next week to make Soviet agreement to a German unity plan the No. 1 Western goal in forthcoming negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Foreign ministers of the other Western powers began arriving Saturday for a series of conferences which will start Tuesday and run through next Saturday.

West Germany's Heinrich von Brentano was the first to reach Washington.

Maurice Couve de Murville of France is due Sunday and Britain's Selwyn Lloyd is scheduled to arrive Tuesday.

'Brentano told reporters on landing in New York that "German reunification would automatically solve the Berlin problem."

Questioned here about the possibility of achieving German unity by stages, Brentano said he thought it would be "completely wrong to speak of stages" because the only way to merge the two parts of Germany fully "is by free democratic elections."

Whether this could be taken to imply some objection on his part to a step-by-step process which U.S. officials have been working on for several months was not clear.

The Western powers have proposed a foreign ministers meeting with the Soviet Union beginning at Geneva May 11 to deal with the whole range of German problems including the East-West dispute over Berlin. The foreign minister's session, according to Western notes sent to Moscow this week, will be followed by a summit conference if the foreign ministers' work in the Western view justifies such a top-level gathering.

Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Lloyd and Couve de Murville will begin the series of Allied strategy meetings with a conference at the State Department Tuesday. The United States, Britain and France, as World War II German occupation powers, have primary responsibility along with the Soviet Union for working out major German issues.

After the Easter services in the United States will come the fashion parade of new bonnets and frocks of the churchgoers. The biggest of these parades will pass along Fifth avenue in New York, where snow fell the day before.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower will spend Easter on their farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

Easter observance knows no Iron Curtain boundary. Millions of Poles jammed churches in Warsaw and other Polish cities for Holy Week services and similar attendance is expected for Easter Sunday.

Brentano is scheduled to join the conferences late Tuesday or Wednesday. The United States, Britain and France are coordinating their policy plans with the West German regime of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

On Thursday the foreign ministers of the 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance will start a three-day conference commemorating the tenth anniversary of the Western coalition. President Eisenhower is scheduled to attend the public opening ceremony and make a foreign policy speech.

That will be one of two addresses on the tense international situation which Eisenhower will deliver next week. On Saturday he is slated to speak at a convocation at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa.

U.S. officials said that in the American view the Western powers must concentrate their initial efforts on getting Soviet agreement to a plan for reunification even though there is new evidence that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will reject this whole approach.

This evidence came on Friday when Soviet newspapers published declarations made by Khrushchev March 7-20 days earlier—at a Communist all-German workers conference in Leipzig. He declared that unification of Germany "would be unrealistic today" and he urged his German Communist audience to avoid haste in pressing the issue.

American officials said that in spite of Khrushchev's line the Western powers must explore every possibility however slight that he started the Berlin crisis last November in order to force the Western governments into an active negotiating position on German problems and that he may be willing to make some acceptable agreements on Germany after hard bargaining.

Christian World Hails Risen Christ

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Christian world emerges from the somber rites of Holy Week on this Easter Sunday to hail the risen Christ.

Forecasts of fair weather promised great crowds for the sunrise services that traditionally greet the dawn in the United States.

Crowds will gather in the Wichita Mountains of Oklahoma, in the Hollywood Bowl and in many another city and town to relive in pageantry and services the Resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Before day broke on Easter the Roman Catholic world had its message from Pope John XXIII. Departing from the custom of delivering papal Easter messages on Sunday, Pope Plus spoke to the world from Vatican City on Saturday night.

The Pope, in a broadcast heard around the world in many languages, offered prayers for the rulers of the earth and for peace.

About 200,000 pilgrims and tourists from most of Europe and from North and South America were gathered in Rome.

In Jerusalem, pilgrims of many lands crowded into the Jordan quarter of the ancient city for the Easter services.

Protestant pilgrims rise early for a sunrise service on the hills of Jerusalem. Roman Catholics will attend a Pontifical High Mass at the church of the Holy Sepulcher near the scene of Christ's burial and resurrection.

Red Warplanes Sent To Search For Dalai Lama

KALIMPONG, India (AP)—The Chinese Communists have sent out warplanes to search for the Dalai Lama, reliable sources said Saturday.

But the 23-year-old god-king is believed safe in southern Tibet where anti-Communist forces have governed for the last 18 months, the informants reported.

Reports reaching this Tibetan caravan terminal say the Chinese were still wiping out pockets of resistance in the Lhasa area a week after the major fighting in the center of the Tibetan capital died down.

Bad weather hampered the air search for the Dalai Lama, however.

The area controlled by the Red Chinese is reliably reported to extend only some 20-30 miles south from Lhasa.

From there to Tibet's southern border with Bhutan and India's northeast frontier, the Tibetan "national defense army" is reported in control, challenged by occasional brief and heavily armed Communist forays.

The Dalai Lama, last known to be in Lhasa March 17, is reported to be with these forces. Their control of the area has been so strong they have even been collecting taxes from local inhabitants, the reports said.

Maung Hla Shwe Speaks Of Burma At Pilot Club Meet

At the last meeting of the Pilot club held at the Dunlap Hotel, Maung Hla Shwe, instructor in the Department of History and government at Illinois College, was guest speaker.

Mr. Shwe, son of a Burmese Methodist minister, told of the need for trained technicians throughout the government and business world of Burma. He contrasted the position of the women in Burma to the women of the western world — careers versus home life. He projected the thought that with women's participation in the business world, plus their home duties, they are perhaps spreading their loyalties rather thin.

Mr. Shwe heartily approved of the Pilot club's project of planting trees and thinks it would be a wonderful idea if there were a nationwide tree planting program, his theory being trees not only furnish beauty and comfort, but it might be the solution to the dust bowl problem as the tree would inhibit the velocity of the wind.

Mr. Shwe has studied in this country during the past 10 years. His undergraduate work was taken at Ohio Wesleyan University. He received an M.A. degree in Political Science from the University of Colorado and is now completing his Ph.D. in International Relations.

Mrs. Harold Henderson, president-elect, introduced the club's guests, Mrs. John Murray and Dr. Ethel Seybold.

The remainder of the program was in charge of Miss Louise Bancroft and her public affairs committee. Mrs. Arthur Samore read the Pilot Code of Ethics. Mrs. John Murray and Miss Margaret Riley's names were drawn for the Easter centerpiece, prepared by Miss Mary Walters.

Persons interested in joining this club may contact club secretary David Knight at 527 Duncan street, phone Chestnut 5-8464. The public is invited to watch these model flyers and their activities at Jacksonville Municipal Airport on Sundays and week evenings.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dunham and daughter, Dorsey, of Columbus, Ohio, arrived at Jacksonville Municipal Airport Sunday to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marshall of Pittsfield. ### REPAIR JOB

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—In municipal court on a charge of driving an unsafe automobile, 19-year-old Harold Hedges produced snapshots showing his car had been reconditioned from grill to back bumper since his arrest. He got off with $13 in court costs and a compliment from the judge on a "minor miracle" in repair work.

Paper originated in Asia before Christianity and was introduced into Europe, probably by the Saracens, in the eighth century.

What's In Line For '59 Her Hat Says Small Furs Star In Parade

Elegant little furs, artfully shaped and cut, will add to the color and beauty of the 1959 Easter parade. The jacket (left) in natural ranch mink has deep stand-away collar and the new shorter sleeve length. Cape stole in aurine mink (right) looks at first glance like a giant bow. Back is softly gathered and the stole is designed to sit with snug perfection on the shoulders. These fur designs are by Leo Ritter.

BY GAILE DUGAS

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It's the small and elegant fur that will star in the 1959 Easter parade. Distinguished by its artful cut, it will appear in every form from shoulderette to actual jacket.

The newest shoulderettes, snuglets and capelets are cut so cleverly that they achieve a true perfection of fit. They stand slightly away from the body while resting so snugly on the shoulders that the old clutching and slipping has been eliminated. These small fur pieces stay in place without help from a grasping hand or a solid gold safety pin.

As for the stole, it gets more shirred detailing and bigger collars this year. It, too, is curved to sit on the shoulders as it should. And the mink stole is getting company for spring in the form of sable and chinchilla capelets with collars that frame the face prettily.

Jackets get stand-away collars, too, and pleats for back interest. The line of the jacket is usually straight but sometimes is cut away at the front or flared at the hem. Some jackets carry out the high-waisted theme for spring with belts, banding or intricate seaming.

House-Hunting Pastor Puts Gospel To Work For Airmen

By MARY KAY FLYNN

NEA Staff Correspondent

BELTON, Mo. (NEA)—Although his address hasn't changed in 10 years, Dr. Monte Peterson, pastor of Belton's First Baptist Church, has been house hunting several hundred times since 1944.

It is not that the 42-year-old minister is hard to please. On the contrary, he sometimes approves the renting of a house just by inspecting it from the outside.

Quite satisfied with the parsonage his wife and two small children occupy, Dr. Peterson's perpetual search is not for himself but for officers and airmen of nearby Richards-Gebaur Air Force base.

Since the establishment of Richards-Gebaur, he has found more than 400 homes or apartments for base personnel, mostly those in the lower income brackets.

"Without his help, I'd still be looking for an apartment to fit my income," commented A-2C Gene A. Golden.

Callers in autos with license tags from all over the country make 621 B Street, the minister's home, look like a tourist mecca. In addition to locating living quarters, he assists military personnel by counseling on marital difficulties, baptizing, performing weddings and giving religious instruction.

"When fire destroyed a series of cabin-type apartments occupied by airmen, Monte worked up to 20 hours a day obtaining shelter and clothing for the disaster victims," M-Sgt. Jess Kellerman of the Central Air Defense Force (CADF) chaplains' office recalled.

A former teacher of Greek, the quiet-spoken minister from Green Top, Mo., had no previous real estate experience and never has kept a formal registry of available and prospective rental property.

Putting a finger to his forehead, the churchman smilingly replied, "It's up here," when asked how he manages without a classified housing record. He is familiar with all rental property among the trailers and 760 houses in the Belton area.

Despite a heavy schedule in the administration of his church duties and volunteer services, acquaintances say the minister never appears hurried. He usually accompanies prospective tenants on inspection trips.

Dr. Peterson regards his help to Richard-Gebaur personnel as "fun." He never solicits fees and is ready to aid all regardless of denomination.

"My real reward comes from the satisfaction I get from helping Air Force personnel," he said. Gratitude of those assisted is evidenced in cherished letters and personal mementos decorating his office.

Col. James T. Patterson, CADF Deputy Chief of Staff of Personnel, described the minister as a "combination of two rare qualities—humanism and Godliness." Dr. Peterson's contributions drew him a CADF Certificate of Appreciation, presented by Maj. Gen. John D. Stevenson, CADF commander.

According to Lt. Col. T. F. Shea, staff chaplain of CADF, Dr. Peterson's volunteer work "exemplifies perfectly the desirable between service personnel and the civilian community."

"Dr. Peterson's absolute and total readiness to be of help is the most outstanding I have observed in 18 years of active duty," Col. Shea, a Catholic priest, commented. "He has a keen awareness of the responsibility of the community in helping service people."

CIRCLE MARTHA WSCS AT GILCHRIST HOME WEDNESDAY

MAXIE SILENCER

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—A ventriculocordectomy settled a law suit.

It was performed by Dr. J. E. Spoon, veterinary surgeon, to correct the noisy barking of Maxie, a dachshund—reducing it to something like a gentle cough.

Miss Priscilla G. Perry, who the barking had bothered, then withdrew her suit against Miss Sara G. Hayden, Maxie's owner.

STILL BURNING

NEW STRATTSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Some 75 years after it was first ignited, a mine fire here still plagues residents. A section of Ohio Route 361 disappeared recently when the fire ate too close to the surface.

Several stories are given of the fire's origin. Some say it's the result of an 1884 strike; others that it's from coal refuse.

The finest of Panama hats are made in Colombia and Ecuador, South America.

Timberlands Burn In Calhoun And Jersey Counties

JERSEYVILLE — Forest fires have been on the increase the past three days in the Jersey and Calhoun county area, according to Edward Meyer of Jerseyville, district fire warden for this Illinois district.

The fires have been at widely distributed points of the district. Meyer said Wednesday. A considerable acreage was burned over in Richmond township north of Fieldon Monday and on Sunday there was several forest fires in Calhoun county. A fire of considerable scope swept a wooded area in the Delhi vicinity Tuesday evening.

"Fires cannot be charged to hunters this time of the year," Meyer stated. "Fishing parties are prevalent in many areas, and in some cases fires originate through the careless burning of brush which gets out of control and spreads to surrounding fields and wooded localities."

Early Gardens
Early gardens in the Jerseyville vicinity are being plowed this week with soil conditions in most cases reported as ideal for early vegetable planting.

Potatoes are being planted, with Cobblers, Early Ohio and some of the Early Red Triumphs utilized for seed. Some gardeners report using Katahdins for early planting.

Oats sowing was being completed this week in most areas, and where ground conditions permitted, farmers were discing stalk fields.

Scholastic Honors

Jim Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Jackson Rice of Jerseyville, has been elected to membership in Phi Eta Sigma, high scholastic honor society for freshmen men, according to announcement made by E. E. Stafford, Dean of Men of the University of Illinois where Rice is a student.

Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" was first published in London in 1843. The American public first became familiar with his works when they were published in U. S. newspapers.

Sometimes it isn't practical to get out and walk around the block. However, it is wise to use walking as a limbering-up, relaxing exercise. So, learn to walk in one spot. Stand with good posture and move one foot out and forward from the hip. Do this with the other foot. Keep knees straight and move only the hips. This is good for circulation and reduces hip measurements.

Jacksonville Native, Mrs. Udry Author Of Book

Janice May Udry, who was born in Jacksonville and received her AB in 1950 from Northwestern, recently had her second book, "The Moon Jumpers", published by Harpers.

Mrs. Udry's first book, "A Tree is Nice" won the Caldecott Medal for 1956. "The Moon Jumpers", illustrated by Maurice Sendak, tells of the children's exhilaration and excitement with the enchantment of the moon as they dance barefoot in the lovely summer night. They are so filled with the magic of the moonlight and the idea that they are "moon jumpers" that they almost forget that they are children and are surprised at the bedtime call of "Children, oh children."

Both the book's theme and its style are semi-poetic with such phrases as "Summer night is the cool dark grass and big tired trees with the moon sailing on a wind."

Following her graduation from Northwestern, Mrs. Udry assisted in a nursery school in Chicago. She and her husband now live in Garden City, Calif.

Charles Bulfinch, Architect of the Capitol (1818-1829).

Restoration was completed by 1827. View from Pennsylvania Avenue, about 1840.

The modern Capitol, substantially as it was in Lincoln's day. Lines show how East Front is now being extended 32½ feet.

After years of discussion, work begins in 1958 on latest expansion of the Capitol.

- In 1792, President George Washington found himself with a splendid plan for a national capital, drawn by Pierre Charles L'Enfant, and a large tract of land, much of it swamp. A public competition was held for designs for a Capitol Building. That of a young physician, William Thornton, was awarded the prize of $500.
- The first section to be built was the North Wing. Into it were crowded the Senate, House of Representatives and Supreme Court when John Adams opened the first session in 1800. The Capitol was still incomplete when it was burned by British forces during the War of 1812.
- Restoration continued into the 1820s, guided by another amateur but competent architect, Charles Bulfinch. His building forms, with modifications, the heart of the Capitol as we know it today.
- As more and more states joined the Union, pressure grew for expansion - of the Capitol. New House and Senate wings were completed by 1859. During the Civil War, to symbolize Union strength, President Lincoln kept work going on the famous cast-iron dome. Its crowning feature, the 19-foot Statue of Freedom, was raised to its place on Dec. 2, 1863.

- The new Capitol was scarcely finished when agitation began to extend the East Front. Architects pointed to the misplaced and overhanging dome. The idea shocked many, to whom the Capitol was sacred and unchangeable. Now, after nearly a century of debate, the project is well under way.
- When completed by 1961, the 10-million-dollar job will not only strengthen and beautify the Capitol but provide much-needed office room, in keeping with the Capitol's role as symbol of the nation's growth.

ICEBERG PATROL

FOR MARINERS who must sail the unpredictable waters of the North Atlantic the greatest menace they have to face is the constant threat of icebergs. To help ensure a safe passage through this transatlantic shipping lane the United States Coast Guard International Ice Patrol maintains a constant vigil, issuing daily ice bulletins to ships in the vicinity of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland.

Under the command of Capt. Victor F. Tydlacka, USCG, with headquarters in Argentia, Newfoundland, the patrol utilizes both surface ships and aircraft in the performance of its duties. The importance which mariners in the Grand Bank vicinity place on the receipt of ice information is indicated by the fact that almost all other radio transmission in the area ceases when station NIK, Argentia, is broadcasting.

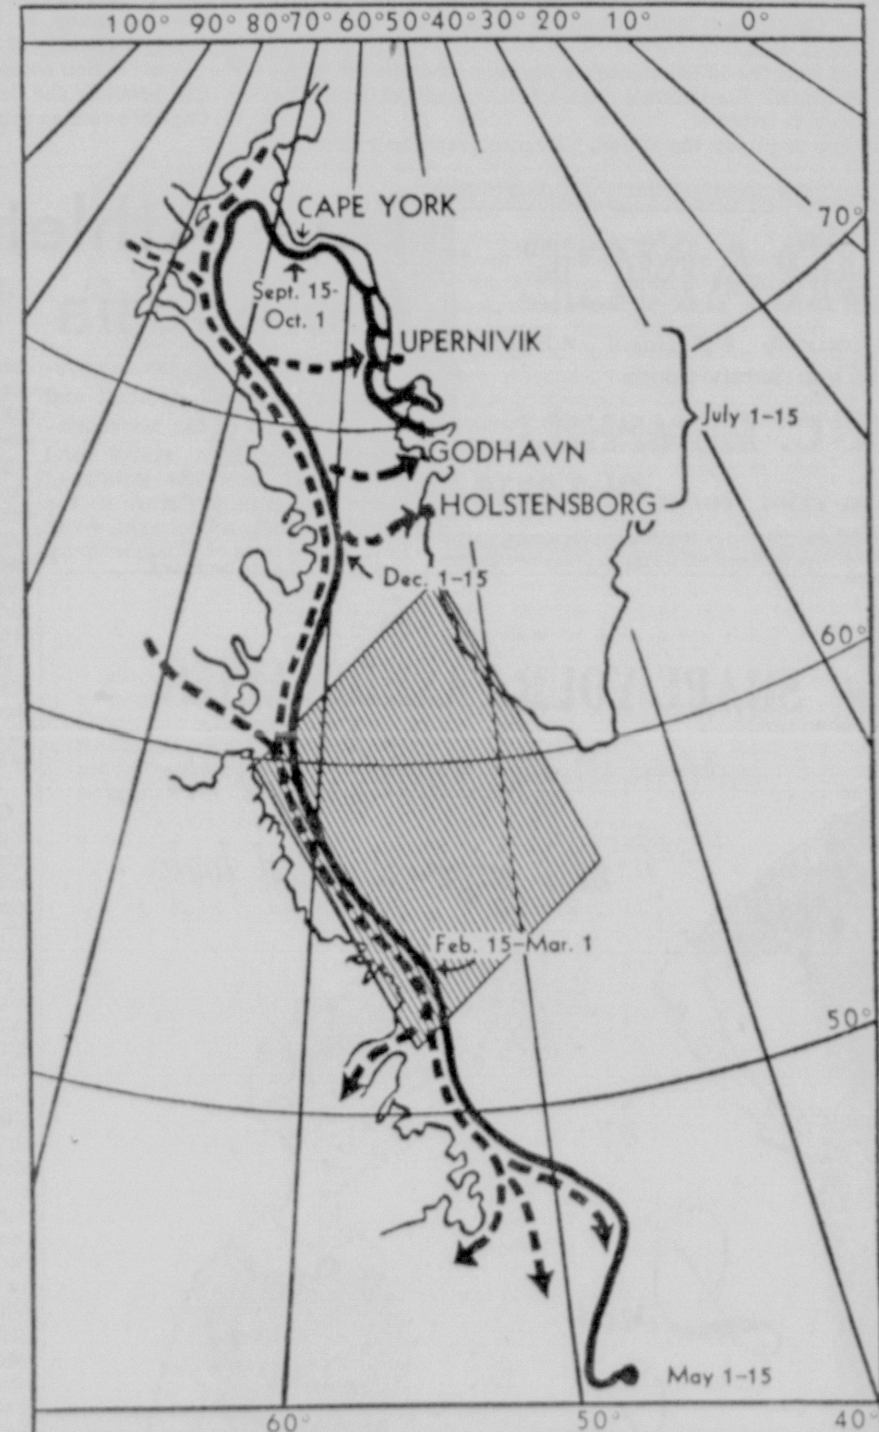

A LOW FLYING Coast Guard plane scouts a mountain of ice drifting in the North Atlantic. Information is collected by ships as well as from aerial surveys.

RADIOMAN Clair H. Boll checks ice reports, coming over teletype from ships and planes, to be used in bulletins.

MAP indicates the distribution of field ice and the limits to which the main body of ice has been recorded south of Newfoundland.

AS AIRCRAFT PATROLS Grand Banks area, observer makes log entries on ice conditions. Entries are checked against navigator's fixes to pinpoint location.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — A broad local packer demand for continued small supplies and a former wholesale pork market combined this week to boost butcher hog prices 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight. Sows had a net gain of 25 cents for the week.

After a steady gain since Monday, top price for butcher hogs hit $17.50 on Friday, the highest peak since Jan. 27. The average cost of $16.90 on Friday for all barrows and gilts also was the highest since Jan. 22.

Offerings of 41,000 head at Chicago were the smallest for a week with one exception since last November. The cattle supply was off 10 percent from the previous week and the smallest in almost a year but the reduction was attributed in part, at least, to the fact that it was holy week.

It was noted that offerings in Easter week last year were the smallest of 1958. In the first two days this week, the supply was the smallest for a Monday and Tuesday in four years.

Choice and prime grade steers showed the broadest market advances for the week with gains of $1 to $2 a hundredweight. A few head at $36.50, the highest since last May.

Slaughter lambs gained 75 cents to $1 in the sheep market as salable supplies declined almost 50 percent from last week. Ewes, however, were as much as 30 cents lower.

Trade throughout the week was fairly active and the market was strengthened somewhat by firmer wholesale carcass prices.

CHICAGO (U.S.D.A.) — Here is a summary for the week of the hog, cattle and sheep markets with estimated receipts for Saturday:

OPERATION INLAND SEAS

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Naval Academy will send 936 of its midshipmen to the Great Lakes this summer for shipboard training they normally would receive at sea.

They'll take part in "Operation Inland Seas" which calls for 28 warships to join in the opening of the new St. Lawrence Seaway between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic.

The ships — including the heavy cruiser Macon, the frigate Minter, 15 destroyers, four submarines, and several amphibious ships — will also take part in the Chicago International Fair and Exposition.

The exercise is scheduled from June 3 to Aug. 5. All 916 members of the Academy's sophomore class and 40 of its first classmen (seniors) will be assigned to the ships for summer training, along with 22 naval ROTC midshipmen.

PREDICTS PUSH-BUTTON MINING

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Peabody Coal Co., the nation's second largest producer of bituminous coal, said Saturday push-button mining is on the horizon.

The company, which has headquarters in St. Louis, said an electronically controlled machine, built for it by the Joy Manufacturing Co. of Pittsburgh, is in the final stages of refinement.

The machine is designed to recover coal too deep for stripping and which cannot presently be mined economically. Peabody said it expects to use the machine to recover millions of tons of deep coal in its strip mine properties without the costly steps of roof supporting and underground ventilation.

CHICAGO (AP) — Weather and possible legislation were the dominant influences in grain futures trading this week and both were mostly bullish except for new crop wheat contracts.

A local circumstance, however, provided the incentive for a consistently bullish attitude toward May wheat which ran up the broadest gain for the period of any future on the board in several months.

It advanced more than 5 cents a bushel while the new crop months declined major fractions to a cent or more. Nearly all other contracts moved up at least a cent and some by well over 2 cents.

A move in Congress, which a House subcommittee approved, to boost price supports for oats and rye attracted some demand for those grains but they had also the added impetus of probable more immediate influences.

One was an indication that the oats yield this year will be considerably reduced, the other was dwindling commercial stocks of rye in Chicago which at the start of the week were reported at only slightly more than a million bushels.

The heavy moisture over the Midwest at midweek and after was viewed as a boon to the winter wheat crop which had been reported as only fair at best in some areas. It caused rather broad liquidation of the new crop months but at the same time was viewed as bullish for some other grains and soybeans, especially.

At the end of the week, wheat was 5 1/2 cents a bushel higher for May to 1 1/2 lower on new crop months, May $2.02 1/2-1/4; corn 3 1/2 higher, May $1.20 1/2-1/4; oats 1 1/2-1/4 higher, May $1.42 1/2-1/4; rye 1 1/2-1/4 higher, May $1.42 1/2-1/4, and soybeans 1/4 - 2 1/4 higher, May $2.25 1/2-1/4.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market underwent its second straight weekly decline as a cautious mood prevailed on Wall Street this week.

The fall in prices, however, was de-emphasized by very light volume.

The four-day trading week, shortened by the Good Friday market holiday, generated turnover of only 12,876,510 shares. The last comparable week, shortened by the Washington's birthday observance, had volume of 16,355,230.

On the basis of average daily trading, this week's average of 3,219,127 was the lightest since the average day volume was 2,958,538 shares.

The small turnover came in sharp contrast with the three prior weeks when transactions were at the heaviest rate since last October. It contrasted, too, with unusually big volume of 13,417,590 shares on the American Stock Exchange.

The business and economic news remained quite good overall despite a few mildly dubious factors. Wall Street analysts, however, were cautious in their comments and there was a feeling that the tremendous advance in some "growth" stocks was due for a rest period.

Chartists said the market may have to "test" the 500-600 support zone of the Dow Jones industrial average. This average closed the week at 606.58.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.10 to $221.70 for its biggest weekly loss since the week ended Feb. 7 when it dropped $3.30.

It was a tense pre-Easter week in the bond markets where investors, investment bankers and the Treasury itself treaded carefully and nervously. Overhauling the market was the Treasury's huge four-billion-dollar financing for cash, a fiscal venture the government will have to repeat several times this year.

Among the corporates, rails and investment quality issues declined. The latter settled to a 1959 low on the AP bond index. Industrials were steady, while utilities and foreign bonds edged higher. Trading declined to $22,941,600 par value on the Big Board from $36,357,500 the previous full week. A year ago volume was $21,633,600 for the corresponding five-day week.

DRAMAS IN SPANISH

NEW YORK (AP) — A permanent theatrical company to tour with Spanish-language versions of drama has been organized here as the American Allstate Theatre.

NEW YORK (AP) — Elia Kazan, Cyril Richard and Brecht Brecht are among outstanding stage mentors who are forming a new organization to be known as the Society of Stage Directors.

Planned to embrace both directors and choreographers, the organization's purposes are to establish "a standard of dignity and security long enjoyed by our colleagues in every other craft of the theater."

LONDON — (NEA) — The gentlemen at Moss Bros., of Covent Garden are not, they want you to understand, anti-American.

But in the interests of objective reporting, it must be set down that the gentlemen at Moss Bros. have reached the conclusion American men are fatheads.

"Just look at these," explained the elderly hat salesman in the world's largest clothes rental store. "All seven and five-eighths. We never stocked such big head sizes until the Americans started coming."

The hats he pointed to were pearl gray toppers, for which there is no great demand in the U.S. But for an American tourist in Britain who is invited to a garden party at Buckingham Palace, or who wants to attend the races at Ascot, the pearl gray hat is a must.

For a modern outlay of $50, the visitor from the States also can rent a pink riding coat, a tartan kilt, a Horse Guardsman's brass helmet and a pair of spats.

But his chances of walking out of Moss wearing any two of these clothing items in combination are slim. A small army of clerks is there to block his passage.

They will try politeness first, then firmness. But if the American insists upon committing a sartorial crime he is subject to a flying tackle.

"We don't like our customers to walk out of here improperly dressed," a Moss public relations man explains. "Wearing a floral necktie with a cut-away coat, for example — our staff will do its utmost to discourage such practices."

Renting formal attire for weddings is Moss' steady business, but it is on such ceremonial occasions as coronations and royal funerals, that the rental clothing firm really comes into its own.

LONDON — (NEA) — All day limousines roll up in front of "The Angles Diamond" exhibition here, where 15 million dollars worth of diamonds are on display in the biggest gem show ever.

The lines start forming early in the morning, but the Queen's private jewels, loaned by Elizabeth II, are not what the 2,000 visitors daily pay to see.

The mini-coated crowd comes to gaze with fascination at the Marie Antoinette Necklace, a strand of 22 diamonds, the largest of which are the size of apricot seeds.

The Marie Antoinette Necklace, which now belongs to the Duchess of Sutherland, is known as "The Bloody Necklace," because of the misfortune it brought to all who were originally connected with it.

The original necklace of 699 diamonds was stolen in 1786, broken up and sold on the continent and in England. The irony is that the Queen for whom it was named not only never wore the necklace, but it is doubtful that she ever saw it.

The full story of the chicanery and intrigue surrounding the Marie Antoinette Necklace will probably never be known. But an interesting footnote has been supplied to me by a descendant of Cardinal Louis de Rohan, the man accused of stealing the necklace in 1786.

He is Prince Charles de Rohan, 64, and now a British subject living in Dorset. Prince Charles was 63 years old when he was accused of the necklace with bitterness, for it plagued his family for over 100 years after the theft.

For a century the family paid the cost of the necklace to the Paris jeweler who made it.

Here is the story of the diamond theft, as pieced together from conversation with Prince Charles. It goes back to the eve of the French Revolution.

Cardinal de Rohan, then French ambassador to the Court of Vienna, was recalled in disgrace, and fell into the hands of a pair of crooks, the Count and Countess de La Motte.

The cardinal appears to have been a rather simple-minded fellow, and the de La Mottes had no difficulty in persuading him that he could regain court favor by making a costly present to Marie Antoinette, then Queen of France.

The de La Mottes had just the bauble in mind — a rather cumbersome-looking necklace of 629 diamonds, woven into festoons, tassels and loops, which Louis XVI had ordered for his mistress, Madame du Barry, but had been unable to pay for.

The cardinal fell for the scheme and pledged his personal credit for 1,600,000 livres. The de La Mottes then forged Marie Antoinette's signature to a document giving them possession of the necklace, broke it up and sold the parcels to the highest bidders.

Count de La Motte escaped to England, where he sold 22 of the diamonds. These are the gems that make up the Marie Antoinette Necklace now on display in London.

The countess, arrested in Paris, was sentenced to be whipped, branded and imprisoned.

Cardinal de Rohan was likewise arrested and tried, but was acquitted, apparently due to his church connections.

The worst end of all, however, was reserved for Marie Antoinette. At her trial by a revolutionary court the necklace which she never saw was used as damning evidence of her "extravagance and love of pleasure," charges which led directly to her execution on the guillotine in 1793.

He is Prince Charles de Rohan, 64, and now a British subject living in Dorset. Prince Charles was 63 years old when he was accused of the necklace with bitterness, for it plagued his family for over 100 years after the theft.

For a century the family paid the cost of the necklace to the Paris jeweler who made it.

Here is the story of the diamond theft, as pieced together from conversation with Prince Charles. It goes back to the eve of the French Revolution.

Cardinal de Rohan, then French ambassador to the Court of Vienna, was recalled in disgrace, and fell into the hands of a pair of crooks, the Count and Countess de La Motte.

The cardinal appears to have been a rather simple-minded fellow, and the de La Mottes had no difficulty in persuading him that he could regain court favor by making a costly present to Marie Antoinette, then Queen of France.

The de La Mottes had just the bauble in mind — a rather cumbersome-looking necklace of 629 diamonds, woven into festoons, tassels and loops, which Louis XVI had ordered for his mistress, Madame du Barry, but had been unable to pay for.

The cardinal fell for the scheme and pledged his personal credit for 1,600,000 livres. The de La Mottes then forged Marie Antoinette's signature to a document giving them possession of the necklace, broke it up and sold the parcels to the highest bidders.

Count de La Motte escaped to England, where he sold 22 of the diamonds. These are the gems that make up the Marie Antoinette Necklace now on display in London.

The countess, arrested in Paris, was sentenced to be whipped, branded and imprisoned.

Cardinal de Rohan was likewise arrested and tried, but was acquitted, apparently due to his church connections.

The worst end of all, however, was reserved for Marie Antoinette. At her trial by a revolutionary court the necklace which she never saw was used as damning evidence of her "extravagance and love of pleasure," charges which led directly to her execution on the guillotine in 1793.

LONDON — (NEA) — The gentlemen at Moss Bros., of Covent Garden are not, they want you to understand, anti-American.

But in the interests of objective reporting, it must be set down that the gentlemen at Moss Bros. have reached the conclusion American men are fatheads.

"Just look at these," explained the elderly hat salesman in the world's largest clothes rental store. "All seven and five-eighths. We never stocked such big head sizes until the Americans started coming."

The hats he pointed to were pearl gray toppers, for which there is no great demand in the U.S. But for an American tourist in Britain who is invited to a garden party at Buckingham Palace, or who wants to attend the races at Ascot, the pearl gray hat is a must.

For a modern outlay of $50, the visitor from the States also can rent a pink riding coat, a tartan kilt, a Horse Guardsman's brass helmet and a pair of spats.

But his chances of walking out of Moss wearing any two of these clothing items in combination are slim. A small army of clerks is there to block his passage.

They will try politeness first, then firmness. But if the American insists upon committing a sartorial crime he is subject to a flying tackle.

"We don't like our customers to walk out of here improperly dressed," a Moss public relations man explains. "Wearing a floral necktie with a cut-away coat, for example — our staff will do its utmost to discourage such practices."

Renting formal attire for weddings is Moss' steady business, but it is on such ceremonial occasions as coronations and royal funerals, that the rental clothing firm really comes into its own.

The coronation of Queen Elizabeth II in 1952 could not have taken place without Moss Bros., according to one commentator.

LONDON — (NEA) — All day limousines roll up in front of "The Angles Diamond" exhibition here, where 15 million dollars worth of diamonds are on display in the biggest gem show ever.

The lines start forming early in the morning, but the Queen's private jewels, loaned by Elizabeth II, are not what the 2,000 visitors daily pay to see.

The mini-coated crowd comes to gaze with fascination at the Marie Antoinette Necklace, a strand of 22 diamonds, the largest of which are the size of apricot seeds.

The Marie Antoinette Necklace, which now belongs to the Duchess of Sutherland, is known as "The Bloody Necklace," because of the misfortune it brought to all who were originally connected with it.

The original necklace of 699 diamonds was stolen in 1786, broken up and sold on the continent and in England. The irony is that the Queen for whom it was named not only never wore the necklace, but it is doubtful that she ever saw it.

The full story of the chicanery and intrigue surrounding the Marie Antoinette Necklace will probably never be known. But an interesting footnote has been supplied to me by a descendant of Cardinal Louis de Rohan, the man accused of stealing the necklace in 1786.

He is Prince Charles de Rohan, 64, and now a British subject living in Dorset. Prince Charles was 63 years old when he was accused of the necklace with bitterness, for it plagued his family for over 100 years after the theft.

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS
Journal-Courier Sports Editor

Athletes of Routt High School will be honored at a banquet Monday night, April 13, at 7:00 p.m. at the Jacksonville Country Club. Joe Lucco, head basketball coach at Edwardsville High School, will be the feature speaker. The affair will honor the football, basketball, baseball and track athletes and the cheerleaders.

In all probability, Jacksonville High's probation will be lifted at the next IHSA Board of Directors meeting.

Al Rosenberger, a former schoolmate of 'Dike' Eddieleman, will introduce the former outstanding Illinois athlete at the 1st Annual JHS Basketball banquet Wednesday, April 8. The pair launched their athletic careers at Centralia High. I understand the Lions Club will attend in a group and the occasion will serve as their Sports banquet for the year. A worthy gesture gentlemen!

When the Cardinals picked up Dean Stone from the Red Sox, this brought back some pleasant memories. Ten years ago this June, Stone, Charlie Due and myself attended a Jack Rosstier baseball school at Streator and landed contracts with Washington. Stone and I roomed together in our first year at Orlando in the Florida League and braved a hurricane that kept us boarded up for three days. Due's assignment in West Virginia kept the trio apart. Dean won the 1954 All-Star game on one pitch which caught Red Schoendienst trying to steal home. I still go along with Leo Durocher when he said Stone batted. The native Illinois, chuckler had a good year with Minneapolis last year after being farmed out with a sore arm. He's a lefty and his slants puzzled Jim Rivera of the White Sox in the Orlando tenure.

Jacksonville High opens its track campaign this Thursday at a triangular meet with I.S.D. and Winchester. Al Rosenberger's thimble has seven triangular and three dual meets in addition to the Decatur Open, Quincy Relays and the Delavan Track Carnival. Of the 46 candidates reporting for spring drills, 15 are lettermen. Lettermen reporting were Merritt Norvell, Mike Hudson, Dave Bone, Ray Thorn, Bob Watts, John Sutphen, Roger Trier, Ed Thompson, Larry Hagen, Bill Gibson, John Bourn, Ken Norton, Bill Stanford, Jack Ricks and Mal Portee.

The JHS cindermen have won the Central Conference for the past two seasons in addition to winning the Macomb District the same number of times. Bobby Watts, last year's state broad-jumping champion, has been elected the 1959 captain. The Crimson will be unable to defend their loop title as the Central disbanded following the basketball season. They plan to reorganize in the future however.

The schedule:

April 2 I.S.D., Winchester, 4:00 p.m.	April 23 Feitshans, 4:00 p.m.
7 at Lanphier, 4:00 p.m.	27 Waverly, Rushville, 4:00 p.m.
10 White Hall, MI, Sterling, 4:00 p.m.	29 Virden, Virginia, 4:00 p.m.
11 at Decatur Open, 4:00 p.m.	May 2 Delavan Carnival, 10:00 a.m.
14 Roodhouse, Jerseyville, 4:00 p.m.	5 Taylorville, 4:00 p.m.
17 at Quincy Relays, 3:30 p.m.	7 at Roodhouse, Roxana, 6:30 p.m.
21 Pittsfield, Central, 4:00 p.m.	9 Macomb District, 15-16 State Finals

Bob Kraushaar and Bob Winstead plan to open their baseball campaigns next Wednesday afternoon at the JHS athletic field if the weather permits. Both coaches agree if Wednesday's weather is as nippy as Saturday's, then it would be too cold to play. Winstead has a solid team for diamond play with eight regulars returning. Kraushaar has only four back and he claims he'll be hurting for pitchers. Bob is looking for a game on April 6 or 9 or would like games for both dates.

I placed 'umpteenth' phone calls Saturday night to find out if any lady bowler in town had ever bettered Jo Vasconcellos' 264 game Thursday afternoon and from what information I could gather, Jo's game is tops so far. About four years ago, Ruth Hunter had a 259 game which must have been tops until Jo produced the high game at the Bowling Center. Mary Schneider's 246 was second best and Sandra Eoff's highest game to date has been a 240. Louise Thompson's best game was a 236. There has probably been plenty of women keglers in this 230 plus bracket but to the best of my knowledge, none of the local girls have ever went over 260. Give your wife a pat on the back for all of us, Jerry. That's a score to be proud of.

HOCKEY PLAYOFFS

TORONTO (AP) — Right-winger Jerry Ehman, slammed home his second goal of the game in a sudden death overtime Saturday night to give the Toronto Maple Leafs an uphill 3-2 victory over the Boston Bruins.

The victory cut Boston's lead to 3-1 in the Stanley Cup hockey semifinal playoff series. Ehman's first goal with less than three minutes left gave Toronto a 2-2 tie in regulation time.

FATHERS PLAN TICKET SALE FOR CRIMSON BASKETBALL BANQUET

Dwight 'Dike' Eddieleman, the former Centralia and Illinois athletic great, will be the featured speaker Wednesday night, April 8, for the 1st Annual Jacksonville High School Basketball Banquet. The event will take place at Jonathan Turner Junior High School starting at 6:00 p.m.

Eddieleman has enjoyed a fabulous sports career and it all began at Centralia High School when the Orphans went to the state three years and in 1942 Eddieleman and his teammates brought home a state championship.

'Dike' attended the University of Illinois and earned 11 letters, more than any athlete in the history of the school. He played on the 1946 Big Ten football championship team and was a member of the 1947 winning Rose Bowl squad.

The featured speaker also excelled in basketball and track. In basketball, he racked up over 2200 points as a Fighting Illini, with 969 points coming in one season. He held the Big Ten record for a long time in the high jump with a leap of 6'7 1/2", which was broken recently. Eddieleman earned a berth on the United States Olympic team in 1948. In high school, he won the state crown in the high jump for three years and finished second as a freshman.

Plans are progressing rapidly and tickets will be put on sale at the following places this week: Bowling Center, Drexel, Myers Brothers, Long's Drug Store and the JHS principal's office. The Jetties and the fathers of the varsity members also have tickets for sale. Fans are urged to get their ducats early as there is a limited supply.

Bill Wall, MacMurray coach, will serve as Master of Ceremonies. The Jacksonville High School orchestra will furnish dinner music and the Cheerleaders and Jetties will serve the meal.

The fathers hope the banquet can become an annual affair and the success of this year's ticket sales will assure them of a yearly guarantee for a Crimson basketball dinner. Plan now to be there!

Finest Golfers In The World Gather Next Week For The Masters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The finest golfers in the world gather in this east Georgia city next week for one of the finest golf shows in the world—the Masters Tournament.

The carefully screened field includes clubs and crown princes of golf from this country, England, South Africa, Australia, Canada, Mexico and Spain.

All are hoping that between Thursday and Sunday their games will be sharp enough to cut them a slice of golfing immortality, not to mention a healthy paycheck such as the $11,250 Arnold Palmer pocketed for his victory last year. Exact amount of the purse is not announced until the final day.

The big bankroll offered — it totaled $60,050 last year — is for the professionals only, of course. But there are other factors which provide incentive aplenty for the amateurs.

No amateur has ever won a Masters, although it is no secret that Bobby Jones, president of the sponsoring Augusta National Golf Club and universally accepted as the greatest amateur golfer ever, would like to see an amateur win this classic he helped originate.

Tournament Chairman Cliff Roberts said indications are that 90 golf stars will tee off. This compares with 86 starters last year.

In addition to Palmer, who will be trying to break the Masters jinx of no winner ever repeating the next year, the field includes the elite of the touring pros: members of the Old Guard such as Ben Hogan, Cary Middlecoff, Sam Snead, and such patriarchs of the game as Fred McLeod, who won the National Open in 1908.

The tournament is played over the 365-acre Augusta National Course. The par 36-72 layout plays at an average length of about 6,850 yards for the Masters. Its tremendous, undulating greens have brought disaster to many a fine player.

Portions of the tournament will be broadcast and televised nationally (CBS).

Williams May Miss Opening Of Baseball Season

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Red Sox slugger Ted Williams will fly to Boston for a Monday appointment at Lahey Clinic and may miss the opening of the baseball season in New York on April 10.

The decision to send the 40-year-old veteran home Sunday for further examination followed X-rays of his ailing neck and shoulder in Phoenix by Dr. Alvin Swenson.

Although the X-rays showed nothing amiss, Dr. Swenson said Ted definitely is suffering from an irritation of the cervical neck. He recommended placing Williams in a cervical traction collar.

The purpose of the collar is to immobilize the neck completely to give relief and speed the healing process.

According to Red Sox trainer Jack Fadden this would keep Williams idle from 10 days to two weeks.

Williams has been idle since he had to cancel out of last Sunday's game with the Cleveland Indians here.

He had been bothered by pain in the muscle just below the right shoulder blade since playing a game two weeks ago.

ABC ACTION LIGHT

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Action was light Saturday in the American Bowling Congress tournament because of the Easter weekend. Jack Blavins of Macomb, Ill., was the leader in the minor events.

Blavins shot 1,796 in the all-events, 635 in the singles and 628 in the doubles, where he teamed with Russell Reed's 538 for a 1,156 total.

Ed Lubanski leads the singles and all-events standings with 764 and a record 2,116, respectively. Lubanski's Pfeifers of Detroit are in front in the open team event with a record 3,243. Bob and Glenn Gersch of Chicago are tops in doubles with 1,316.

BIG KLU TRIMS DOWN

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Big Ted Kluszewski returns to his form with the Pittsburgh Pirates this season some of the credit should go to swimming.

Kluszewski weighed in at 240 pounds when spring training began, the same weight as last year, but he had reduced his waistline nearly four inches. "I did a lot of swimming because it's the best of all exercise," he says. "and because I have enough personal vanity to feel that just wasn't me who hit only four home runs last year."

In 1954, while with the Cincinnati Redlegs, Kluszewski led the National League with 49 homers.

Vertex Easily Wins Campbell Handicap Payoff

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Vertex, a fragile-legged horse, turned into a well-heeled one Saturday by easily winning the John B. Campbell Handicap for his second $100,000 victory in a week.

His profit of $74,595, added to last Saturday's first prize in the Gulfstream Handicap in Florida, gave the 5-year-old chestnut total paychecks of $153,743 in eight days.

Vertex, owned by J. J. Brunetti and F. A. Piarulli, is only the second thoroughbred in history to cop two hundred-grand races in such a short span. The first was Round Table in 1957 who won the Hollywood Gold Cup and West-

Runner-up in the sixth Campbell Handicap was Backbone, six lengths away. Talent Show was third.

Vertex, a Maryland-born horse, was ridden by Baltimorean Sammy Boulmeils.

Vertex, who has had frequent leg trouble including loss of part of a hoof, ran as sound as an old dollar in covering the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 1-5.

He was carrying 124 pounds, ranging from 7 to 14 more than any of his nine rivals.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Score's Return To Lineup Could Change Cleveland's Standings

By CHARLES MAHER

Associated Press Sports Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians have swung a lot of deals since last fall, but there is another reason to suspect this could be a changed team.

Pitcher Herb Score is back. Whether the return of this potentially great lefthander will be enough to get the Indians out of the bottom of the first division is unknown. But it seems safe to say he won't be an insufferable burden.

There have been other changes, too. Outfielder Larry Doby, pitchers Ray Narleski and Don Mossi, first baseman Vic Wertz and infielder-outfielder-catcher Earl Averill have been traded. And infielder Billy Martin, outfielders Jim Pier-sall and Jim Bolger, first baseman-outfielder Tito Francona and pitchers Al Cicotte and John Briggs have been acquired.

So where do the Indians stand? "If we've got Score back," said Manager Joe Gordon, "and we can use Gary Bell from the start, we are bound to be better."

Score, out most of the last two seasons with injuries, has not been phenomenal in exhibition games. But he's throwing without any pain.

Bell came up last May and won 12 games while losing 10. "He had some bad luck," Gordon said.

"He could easily have been 14-6." Other possible starters include Cal McLish 16-8, Jim Grant 10-11, Don Ferrarese 3-4, Mike Garcia 1-0 and Cicotte 3-1 with Detroit.

Gordon's lineup would include Rocky Colavito and Minnie Mingo in the outfield and Vic Power at first or third base. If Power plays first, Gordon might use Randy Jackson at third. If not, Mickey Vernon or Francona could take first.

George Strickland is bidding for shortstop along with Woodie Held. At second are Martin and Bill Morna. Russ Nixon should do most of the catching again. Pier-sall could be used between Mingo and Colavito in the outfield. Francona also could be played in the outfield.

Gordon thinks Boston, Chicago, Detroit and his own club all are a little stronger this year.

Next—San Francisco Giants.

Big 10 Cage Coaches Approve 14-Game Card

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Ten basketball coaches Saturday approved another 14-games conference schedule for the 1959-60 season when the over-all campaign will be increased from 22 to 34 games.

Conference schools played a 14-game league schedule this year with 8 outside games. Last December, it was voted to increase non-conference competition to 10 games.

The conference slate calls for each member to play five teams twice, on a home-and-home basis, and four rivals to be met in single games, two at home and two away.

The championship season will open Jan. 2 with six teams in action, including Purdue at Indiana, Iowa at Minnesota and defending Champion Michigan State at Wisconsin. The conference race closes March 5 with games scheduled for all teams.

Cousey Leads Celtics To 129-108 Win

BOSTON (AP) — Bob Cousey, never better in the clutch, opened a chink in the Syracuse armor late in the first half Saturday and guided the Boston Celtics to a rugged 129-108 National Basketball Assn. playoff victory over the Nationals.

The win gave the Celtics a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven Eastern Division final series.

Cousey collected 10 of his 27 points just before halftime. His scoring put the Celtics ahead to stay 63-59 by intermission and his clever play-making in the final 12 minutes broke it wide open.

The first winner of Pimlico's Preakness, Survivor in 1873, received a purse of $1,800. The colt which wins the 83rd running of the Preakness at the Baltimore track next May 16 is expected to get $127,500 from a gross pot of about $180,000.

Alabama's 1938 football team allowed only 35 opponent first downs in nine games, a Southeastern Conference record.

Baseball No Longer Is The Dominant National Sport

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—In the opinion of American sports editors, baseball is no longer the dominant national sport.

It is still No. 1, but by the narrowest of margins over college football. And professional football is a challenging third.

In an effort to arrive at an evaluation of sports interest, the Associated Press Managing Editors Committee on Sports sent out a detailed questionnaire to sports editors. They were asked to evaluate on a percentage basis the extent to which they believed their readers followed each sport.

Major league baseball led with 80.9 per cent, followed by college football 80.5, professional football 77.3, college basketball 61.0, boxing 56.1, golf 55.5, fishing 48.9, hunting 43.7, and bowling 39.8.

Announcement of the poll was made by William B. Dickinson, managing editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin and chairman of the APME Committee on Sports.

Other sports in the tabulation were professional basketball 37.9, track and field 37.4, horse racing 34.5, tennis 30.9, automobile racing 25.9, motorboating 24.2, swimming 22.2, minor league baseball 21.3, hockey 19.9, harness racing 15.4, wrestling 15.3, skiing 14.9, yachting 11.2, rowing 10.6, figure skating 6.0, billiards 5.7, and ice speed skating 5.3.

A total of 262 replies to the poll were received from 42 states and Canada.

To the question of what one sport The AP carries too much on, baseball led with 29 mentions followed by tennis 17, horse racing 15, hockey 11, golf 9, basketball both college and pro 9, boxing 7, football 5 with a scattering of others.

The reverse of this—the single sport on which AP carries too little—brought diversified answers, with outdoors sports of all kinds cited most often with 22, followed by bowling 17, football including college, professional and Canadian, 15; basketball 13, automobile racing 11, horse racing 6, and a number of others.

Oxford Claims Rowing Crown From Cambridge

LONDON (AP)—Oxford won the 16th Boat Race from Cambridge Saturday despite an American-inspired mutiny among its oarsmen. The victory was an upset and the winning margin of six lengths vindicated Oxford captain, Ronnie Howard, who resisted criticisms of his training and coaching methods.

The winning time for the 4 1/2-mile row up the rough and windy River Thames was 18 minutes, 52 seconds.

The Boat Race is one of Britain's great free sports shows. A crowd estimated at half a million lined the banks of the Thames in western London to watch the shells go by.

Oxford leaped to one one-length lead after passing the mile post and was never headed.

Howard, the winning captain, was the day's hero. He rows No. 3. Last winter Reed Rubin of New York City, No. 6 for Oxford last year and a former Yale varsity man, formed a rebel crew.

He said he did not like the way Oxford went about getting ready. Oxford had lost the last four races to Cambridge and Rubin wanted a new training program. Many top Oxford rowers supported him.

His mutiny failed when Howard insisted on Oxford's preparing much the same way it had for years.

The result left the count 58 for Cambridge, 46 for Oxford and 1 dead heat.

Atoll Captures Swift Stakes

NEW YORK (AP) — The Elkcam Stable of Miami unveiled Atoll, its big Kentucky Derby hope, Saturday in the $27,700 Swift Stakes and he romped home by six lengths in the slop at Jamaica.

The race lost a lot of its lustre when, intentionally, the pre-race favorite and a prize derby contender, was scratched earlier in the day. Trainer Ed Kelly probably wanted to take no chances with the mud.

The second horse under the wire was Inescapable, who set the early pace but folded when Eddie Arcaro turned Atoll loose an eighth of a mile from home.

Inescapable was a length and a half in front of Dandy Don. It was the same distance back to the fourth runner, Royal Anthem.

However, the stewards disqualified Dandy Don from third for interfering with Inescapable on the turn for home. They placed him last and moved Royal Anthem in to third money, moving up Pointer to fourth.

Seven 3-year-olds went to the post in the six-furlong sprint.

The leaf of the acanthus, a weedy plant, was the inspiration of decorative art in early Roman and Christian architecture, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

The new high school athletic conference was formed at Rushville Tuesday night and will go into effect September 1, 1959. The new Spoon River conference will have as its members Havana, Lewistown, Beardstown, Rushville, Macomb and Bushnell. Lewistown and Bushnell were in the old Olympic conference which disbanded last Fall when the small high schools dropped out. Cuba, a former member of the Olympic loop, has been invited to join the Spoon River group. The move was preceded by a number of meetings and places Lewistown in tougher competition along with Bushnell and should produce some very well matched athletic contests in the next few years.

Former Milton high mentor Merle G. Moore of Springfield met with his famous high team of 1938 that went to the "Sweet 16 Tourney." The meeting was held at Pittsfield in the Cardinal Inn Sunday night and they met last year on their 20th anniversary. They enjoyed it so much that they decided to have one this year. The five regular players on the 1938 team, all being present for the affair included Phil and Bill Hoover, Everett Allen, George Lemon and Don Parks. The other players that won letters were Stewart Hayden, Don Hamman and Ervin Walk.

Coach John Benington of St. Louis U. was the principal speaker at the Canton high basketball banquet Thursday night held in Wallace Park recreation center. It was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and about 150 attended including Assistant mentor at St. Louis U. Fred Kovar. Benington is a former assistant coach at Michigan State and the last two years he was head basketball boss at Drake U. He received a new car before taking his team to the NIT journey in New York. He played in 1949 for San Francisco U. and that team won the NIT title in Madison Square Garden.

Canton's All-State forward Dave Downey, 6-5 stand-out, and Coach Chuck Crosby will attend the annual banquet sponsored by the Champaign News Gazette on April 4. The top 15 players, that includes the first three All-State teams, and their coaches are invited to attend this affair. Ken Seibel of Rock Falls, Tom Cole of Springfield, Bill Kurz of Notre Dame (Quincy) and Bill Small of West Aurora are the other first All-State team members.

Dick Campbell has resigned as head basketball coach at Newton high after three years to be named the new assistant coach at York high of Elmhurst. Coach Fred Imhoff has resigned as coach of all sports at Zeigler high after three years and William Prince has been named head coach at Beecher City high to succeed the late Carroll Grandt who was killed in an auto accident on March 18 returning from the State finals at Decatur.

Jim Bryan and Bob Powless are the new co-captains of Flora's 1959-60 basketball team. Bryan led the Wolves of Coach Warren Collier with a .744 free throw average while Powless, a fine throw stand-out, led in field goals with .468 during the 1958-59 cage season.

Dick Secret was Taylorville's most valuable player as a senior and was named honorary co-captain with Dave Giovannoli. Fred Dickman has resigned as basketball coach at Morton high school and Harry Forrester has resigned as head cage coach at Tuscola high. Coach Richard Herrin will take his Okawville five to the Salem high Holiday tourney next December.

Bob Naffziger has resigned as head basketball coach at Bradley high school after four years and his 1957-58 team went to the "Sweet 16 Tourney." Don Raines has resigned as basketball boss at Carbondale high school after serving three years. ## Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

PORT MYERS, Fla.—(NEA)—With Frank Thomas traded to the Reds, Richard L. Stuart looms like a California redwood in the now ambitious Pirates' plans.

Dick Murtough must supply right-hand thump, for Danny Murtough admits his club could not have made the remarkable run of last season without him.

This is the same Stuart considered to be a bit whacky when he showed up there two years ago.

I asked Murtough if young Stuart had straightened out.

"I don't know whether he has or not, but he straightens that ball out pretty good," replied Pittsburgh's 1958 Manager of the Year. "I don't know about his attitude, but the altitude has changed."

When Stuart first showed up on this lovely bank of the Loxahatchie River in the spring of 1957, he was a recruit out of San Carlos, Calif., who had manufactured 66 home runs for Lincoln of the Western League and didn't mind letting all hands know he could hit a ball from town to town.

Almost at once, he became baseball's most colorful character since Dizzy Dean, the most controversial since Ted Williams first popped up at Sarasota.

When exhibition games started, a Fort Myers jeweler offered $5 to the Pirate hitting the first home run. In his first trip to the plate, Stuart hit the first ball pitched to him over the trees in back of the left field fence.

To their astonishment, the writers in the press coop atop the little Terry Park grandstand almost immediately found themselves being talked to the shoulder.

"Where's my $5?" demanded Stuart.

The Pirates kidded Stuart about his boasts and the 66 home runs. Dick came back at them, soon wasn't exactly the most popular member of the crew. He was risking life and limb in the outfield. Then he started striking out too much. The first thing he knew he was with Hollywood, where the Pittsburgh front office decided his peculiar talent was best fitted at the time.

Stuart hit seven home runs the first week there. Pictures of him decorated Los Angeles sports pages. Visiting a movie studio, he was introduced to Jayne Mansfield.

"How come you get your picture in the papers more than I do?" she asked.

"You don't hit the home run," he answered.

But the holes in Dick soon showed and he wound up back in his old A league starring grounds in Lincoln.

Manager Larry Shepard of Salt Lake City had the most important hand in the development of Stuart. For which the Pirates are thankful. Stuart helped them hop from a tie for last place in 1957 to second last season—and they were in it until mid-September.

Shepard had Stuart when he hit the 66 home runs for Lincoln. But the young manager did the job last season with Salt Lake City.

"The main trouble was finding a position for him," explains Shepard. "He'd fall asleep in the outfield while trying to figure why he popped up. Bringing him closer to the batter kept him awake. He might get hit on the head by a batted ball if he dozed off at first. That woke him up. Now, like most sluggers, all he has to do is cut down his strikeouts."

"Dick was eccentric, but he was never obnoxious. And he is a good thinker, although he had lapses at times."

"Salt Lake had the bases full and the count on the hitter was 3 and 1. Dick was on third base. I told him there was no sign on the batter was hitting straight away. As the pitcher wound up, I shouted, 'There he goes' with the idea of perhaps helping the batter to a fourth ball or taking something off the pitch."

"Dick broke for the plate and was caught flat-footed as the batter took the second strike. I thought you might have changed your mind," he told me.

Stuart had 31 home runs and a .311 average in 80 games for Salt Lake City, so he was called up by the Pirates during the All-Star Game break. He hit a home run in his first game in Chicago, a grand slammer the next. He was off. He hit a home run in every National League park. The Pirates moved with him.

He hit a 455-foot triple over the Cubs' Bobby Thomson's head that bounced off the center field fence at Forbes Field. Asked if that was the longest ball he ever hit, he replied, "No, I hit a ball 550 feet in Pueblo. The ball stuck in a mudbank and they measured it."

After all I had heard and read of Stuart, I expected to meet another Billy Loes. Instead, Shepard introduced me to a good-looking, pleasant young man who at 26 has an even 300 pounds packed on a six-three frame.

Stuart's pretty blonde bride of 10 months, Lois, sat beside him in an automobile outside Terry Park as we chatted.

"They told me you were a pop-off," I said.

"I was," replied Stuart, "but a lot of those stories were made up."

I asked Stuart if he believed he could continue hitting National League pitching.

"He'd better," his wife said.

Give Low Rating To Antisubmarine Detection System

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The ability of the Navy's present anti-submarine system to detect and track nuclear submarines was reported Saturday night to have received a low performance rating in a secret and independent survey by a Defense Department agency.

Such a finding could have an important impact in the light of growing reports of the existence in the Soviet fleet of new nuclear submarines, presumably designed for eventual use with ballistic missiles.

From overseas there has come unofficial speculation recently that as many as a dozen atom-powered submarines may have been built or started by the Soviet Union.

Without discussing any possible results of an anti-submarine warfare study, Pentagon officials confirm that the Defense Department's Weapons System Evaluation Group has "looked into various aspects of ASW" from time to time.

The group was organized a decade ago to provide the secretary of defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff with an agency of military and civilian scientists charged with the job of assessing the value of existing or proposed weapons and weapons system under changing conditions of warfare.

One of the aspects of ASW into which the weapons group has looked apparently is the efficiency of the present system against the deadly nuclear submarine.

One source said the WSEG report had indicated that both the present and planned capability for the Navy's anti-submarine system, as related to nuclear submarines, is totally inadequate. This applies to detection, tracking and by-product of A-SUBs. The study indicated a low rating, also, for the system's ability to destroy a submarine.

One test of ASW capability was understood to have been made in a 200-mile area along the Atlantic seaboard. The test area was laid out in relation to the offshore position from which an enemy submarine probably would launch missiles against targets in the Eastern United States.

Another instance, not related directly to the WSEG assessment, was reported to have involved an atomic submarine several months ago. The submarine, according to one source, made three passes under the protecting ASW screen of a task force at sea without ever being detected. On each of the passes, the submarine was in position to have fired torpedoes into the carrier and other ships of the surface force.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Donna and Debbie Horst walked slowly, hand in hand, from a hospital Saturday with a most precious Easter gift—the knowledge that they soon will be able to lead normal lives.

Just nine days ago the pretty, 5-year-old identical twins underwent the same kind of operation to remedy congenital heart defects.

An improper closing of a valve at the heart's main artery had threatened them with limited activity and possibly a limited life.

Doctors at Germantown Hospital said Saturday the girls must still remain as quiet as 5-year-olds can for three more weeks. After that all the horizons normally open to children will be open to them.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Horst, gave the girls, another present, Easter finery for their exit from the hospital.

Aid Recipients Told—Raise Food If Help Expected

BELLAIRE, Mich. (AP)—The Antrim County Welfare Board laid down some rules for welfare recipients Saturday—raise gardens and get in food this summer or expect no help from the county treasury next winter.

The board said its policy was inspired by "a deep respect for our forefathers who never knew of welfare but made plans in the summer for the year ahead."

Bellaire pop. 700 is the county seat of a fruit and vegetable growing area.

Antrim County's welfare problem was aggravated by a poor fruit season last year.

The board said all able-bodied people will be cut off the welfare rolls May 1 to fend for themselves and if they expect to qualify for help next fall they will have to: Raise a garden, can fruits and vegetables, get in a supply of wood or pay ahead on fuel bills.

Stay away from bars and beer gardens.

FALSE FIRE ALARM
WINDSOR, England (AP)—Smoke belched Saturday from a window of historic Windsor Castle, where Queen Elizabeth II is spending Easter. Firemen rushed to the scene but found no flames.

Smoke from the chimney over an open fireplace had sent smoke billowing out.

Among the differences between spiders and insects is that the former have no wings.

Market May Suspend Trading In Green Stock

NEW YORK (AP)—An apparent three-million-dollar shortage in the assets of the H. L. Green Co. huge variety store chain, may bring a halt in the trading of its stock.

Paul Windels Jr., regional administrator of the Securities and Exchange Commission, said trading in Green stock may be suspended before the New York Stock Exchange opens Monday.

The stock closed Thursday at $37.37 a share. It was the last day of trading before the three-day shutdown for the Good Friday-Easter weekend.

Two directors of the Green company, which operates nearly 400 stores, many in the Southeast, said Friday a March 11 audit showed "an apparent deficiency approaching three million dollars" in the firm's assets.

Just prior to the announcement, Maurice E. Olen, 35, president and a director, resigned his $49,000-a-year job. A short time later, Hershel Harris, vice president and a director, quit his $43,700-a-year job.

The Green directors, who reported the shortage during a news conference in Windels' office, were James M. Nicely, senior vice president of the First National City Bank of New York, and Joseph M. d'Assern, a partner in d'Assern & Co., a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

The two directors said: "We are taking appropriate action to remedy the shortage during a news conference in Windels' office, were James M. Nicely, senior vice president of the First National City Bank of New York, and Joseph M. d'Assern, a partner in d'Assern & Co., a member of the New York Stock Exchange."

"Mr. Olen has expressed his intention and financial ability to make good whatever deficiency may be finally determined and has deposited cash and securities in partial satisfaction of such undertaking."

Nicely and d'Assern said the apparent shortage stemmed from "an overstatement of inventory and an understatement of liabilities."

Olen and Harris made no comment on the Nicely-d'Assern statement but Murray Gurfein, attorney for Olen said:

"There has been no claim of any misappropriation of funds by Mr. Olen personally or by anyone else. The issue involves what is a proper valuation of the net assets of the Olen division."

The H. L. Green firm merged last December with the Olen Co. also a variety store chain, and continued to operate it as the Olen division of Green. Olen was president and Harris was executive vice president of Olen at the time of the merger.

Naval Air Reserve To Pick Up Where Air Force Left Off

RANTOUL, Ill. (AP)—The Naval Air Reserve agreed Saturday to carry out the Air Force's canceled plan to fly a team of hand-capped athletes to the 5th annual National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament in Santa Ana, Calif.

Cmdr. T. W. Grubbs, chief of Naval Reserve air training in Glenview, Ill., said a four-engine Navy transport plane, flown by Naval Reservists, would go to Chanute Air Force Base at Rantoul to pick up the team.

He said the plane was expected to leave Chanute about 8:30 p.m. for the 10-hour flight to El Toro, Calif., Marine Corps Base.

Twenty-five members of the University of Illinois Gizz Kids had been waiting with packed bags since Friday when the Air Force canceled without explanation its plans to fly the hand-capped team to the West Coast.

The Pentagon late Friday overruled the cancellation.

However Tim Nugent, manager of the Gizz Kids and counselor at the University of Illinois rehabilitation center, said a telephone call Saturday to Air Force headquarters in Washington was fruitless. He said he was told a plane was not available immediately.

Nugent said a telephone call to Navy headquarters put him in touch with Cmdr. Grubbs. He said that half an hour after he talked to Grubbs, the Glenview officer phoned back to tell the athletes to expect a plane.

In overruling the Air Force Friday, Donald Quarles, deputy secretary of defense, directed the military services to go ahead and fly teams from New York City, Brooklyn, New Jersey and Tampa, Fla., as well as the Illinois group. The Pentagon announced at the time the Navy and Marine Corps would join in the air lift.

The Air Force's cancellation action followed criticism by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) of the Air Force for financing what he termed sight-seeing trips by private citizens to military demonstrations.

After the cancellation, Douglas telephoned Nugent from Washington, saying:

"My objection is to the hauling of dignitaries on plush junkets that are not in the public interest. It is ironic that a group such as yours, to which I would have absolutely no objection, should suffer."

A Pentagon spokesman said Quarles overruled the Air Force because it was crippled or handicapped veterans would benefit from the wheelchair tournament since proceeds from ticket sales are going to the Navy Relief Society Fund.

Some businessmen in Bay Rantoul S. Harmon's birthplace are plugging him as a presidential candidate who saved the disappearing American front porch.

In the hullabaloo over the $100-a-month government rent Harmon collects for a home office on his own front porch in Muncie, Ind., John Powell organized a "Randall S. Harmon for President Club No. 1" here.

"The front porch for American homes was finished until Harmon came along," Powell said. "And if he can save the front porch from extinction, he is the needed man of the hour to bring back other virtues of American living that are gradually fading from the scene."

Powell, a loan office manager, lined up 15 other gleeful citizens as club members. They sent Harmon a straight-faced letter, asking his authorization.

There has been no reply but Powell said he expects the Democratic congressman to approve, for the publicity if nothing else.

Powell noted Harmon once was quoted as saying, "I may be your next president."

Citizens aren't taking the new club very seriously. One said, "after all, he was born here, and Muncie is getting all the publicity."

The first-term congressman from Indiana's 16th District was born and schooled in North Vernon, and his mother still lives here. He moved 90 miles to Muncie and worked for 25 years as a tool and die maker before he was elected to Congress. He had tried eight times — five times as a Republican.

A North Vernon resident who lives on the same street as Harmon's mother said:

"I think Harmon is a smart fellow, and he's certainly not hurting himself any with all the publicity he's getting. Maybe he wouldn't be a bad choice for president."

WITHERS, 55, swallowed an overdose of sleeping pills. Police said the actor's landlord had found his body Friday night but that he had probably been dead 24 hours.

A note explained his suicide. "It's better this way," it said. "Thanks to my friends; sorry I let them down. I was so unhappy."

Withers' body was found propped up in bed of his bachelor apartment. He was wearing slippers, clutching a telephone receiver, and had a novel in his lap.

Landlord Jack Miller said Withers had been despondent and plagued by debts recently.

His film career was most successful in the mid-30s. In the first nine months of a Warner Bros. contract, he appeared in 13 pictures.

Later, roles became scarce. He had been limited to television and bit parts in western movies recently.

Fewer than one-half the 40 individual states have official songs of their own.

Chicago Frantically Getting Dressed For Pan-American Games

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—A North American bride in this big sports event, Chicago frantically is dressing for the third Pan-American Games this summer in something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue.

The blue has to do with amateur athletic leaders like Avery Brundage, Doug Roby and Tug Wilson. They have despaired of the city's chances of getting prepared properly by the July 27 deadline for an official inspection.

The Games will be held at some 20 different sites in the Chicago area Aug. 27-Sept. 7.

The something old has to do with most of the sites, including such established arenas as Soldier Field, scene of the track and field competition; the basketball halls of Northwestern and De Paul Universities; the big league baseball parks of Wrigley Field or Comiskey Park; and the main Pan-Am village, the University of Chicago.

The something new includes a $650,000 Olympic-type swimming pool in Portage Park; a velodrome for cycling which started as $200,000 project but wound up as a contribution by a wealthy contractor; and a rowing course described as the world's finest.

Actually, the rowing course in the Cal-Sag Canal falls into the "something borrowed" bracket since that tranquil, deep channel has been developed for a link in the St. Lawrence Waterway opening this summer.

The Games' technical director, Al Herman, thinks the actual expenditure to the Pan-American organization itself will be around $355,000. The Chicago Park District has earmarked some $2,000,000 for Games facilities, some of which will become permanent installations.

"If we started from scratch on the entire project—building new arenas and so forth," it would cost us 42 million dollars to run the games," said Herman.

"But we have a wealth of arenas in Chicago and generous, civic-minded people and we'll get the job done."

In the gift department, the box on the entire project—building new arenas and so forth," it would cost us 42 million dollars to run the games," said Herman.

"The scientist that is produced at colleges like MacMurray will be of great value to the world. By providing for a competent science faculty and modern facilities, we will produce a scientist, physicist, engineer, etc., that will have the finest of skills, and they should be duly respected for this. But, secondly, and just as important, while these persons are here at MacMurray, they are learning these skills in an atmosphere conducive to producing reasons why they do these things as they do. It isn't important what his religion is, but simply the fact that he will have some guidance in his thinking as he goes out to serve a highly technical world in the matter of his training here."

Rider, who with his family is a member of Centenary Methodist church, has an article in "The Telescope Messenger," in the January, 1959, issue. Entitled "Communications in The Space Age," the article states that soon the scientist will have the choice of pushing a button that will make his thinking, powers, airplanes, or a button that will cure cancer.

This is an example that he uses in pointing up the importance of moral responsibility especially in today's complex society.

FUN FOR OLDER FOLKS—M. J. Dorsey, retired University of Illinois professor of horticulture, demonstrates how to apply hormones to plants for favorable growth results. A special exhibit on gardening and flower growing will be displayed during the UI Farm and Home Festival, April 2, 3 and 4.

Age, Strength No Barrier To Hobby

URBANA—Growing older does not necessarily mean the end of exciting, interesting and creative activities. University of Illinois horticulturists have now designed a wide range of gardening activities that will suit the hardest or most limited physical ability of any "senior citizen."

These activities include growing plants in nutrient solutions instead of soils, growing unusual plants, developing new flower varieties and other plants and cultivating plants with such unique growing methods as indoor lighting.

This gardening program is part of the University's work in developing worthwhile activities for older people. It may be carried out through agencies that work with older people, through clubs and organizations or by the individuals themselves.

During the UI Farm and Home Festival, April 2, 3 and 4, the Department of Horticulture will have an exhibit portraying suggested gardening hobbies. In addition, the exhibit shows how gardening may serve the older person by providing physical activity. Gardening methods can be adapted to anyone, whether he is confined to a wheel-chair or can move about freely.

"Creative Activity"

"Gardening also serves as a creative activity in which a person can develop original, beautiful or unusual results. It provides a constructive use of leisure time that in turn gives a sense of achievement," says Jack Butler, horticulture assistant in charge of the program.

"Working in the plant world also brings a mental and emotional fulfillment and gives a person individual freedom in conducting his own project at his own leisure."

A Popular Hobby

Butler points out that gardening is already a popular hobby of many older and retired persons. As an example, he cites an Australian sample survey made of people over 55 years of age. Results showed that 79 percent of the men and 97 percent of the women listed gardening as a favorite hobby. No other hobby was nearly so popular with the men. But, as might be expected, cooking and sewing are also favorites with the women.

Persons wishing to get more information about a gardening program for older people may write directly to the Department of Horticulture, 124 Mumford Hall, Urbana. Or they may visit the gardening exhibit at Farm and Home Festival. Someone will be there at all times to discuss the program and to answer questions.

HULA HAZARDS

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — City police say hula hoops have created a new traffic hazard.

"The kids used to have to stand still to make the hoops work," says Sgt. Sam Hill. "But now they're so good they can walk and hula at the same time. And a lot of them walk across busy streets whirling their hoops and not looking for automobiles."

Personal Taxes Are Expensive To Collect

Illinois residents are paying three times as much for administrative costs in the assessment and collection of personal property taxes as for real estate taxes. This is the finding of a recent survey conducted by N. G. P. Krausz, professor of agricultural law at the University of Illinois.

The survey, taken in five typical Illinois counties, shows that costs of collecting personal property taxes averaged $255 for every $10,000 in taxes collected. Real estate tax collection costs averaged only $80.90 for the same amount of taxes. The costs for collecting state taxes runs about $100 per $10,000 collected, Krausz points out.

On the average, personal property taxes in 1957 made up about 18 per cent of total taxes collected by the counties surveyed. Real estate taxes accounted for 78 per cent.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

CORN PRICES TOP YEAR-BEFORE LEVEL

Livestock Take More Grain

Corn prices have recently been near or above those of a year ago. Grade for grade, prices were up only a cent or two. But because of the better quality of the crop this year, actual prices realized by farmers were up as much as 10 cents a bushel.

Prices to farmers went up to around $1.25 a bushel last summer. The much bigger crop now in farmers' hands and the lower prices of hogs will tend to hold down this year. On the other hand, conditions favor a high rate of use for corn, which will tend to lift or support prices.

Supply figures. At the first of January, farm stocks were estimated at 2,696 million bushels, or 9 percent more than one year before. Of this amount, 362 million bushels were under price support loans—some 70 million more than one year earlier. But the flow of corn to price support shelter probably is slower now than it was last year because market prices are nearer the support levels. Last year support levels were $1.40 and $1.10, and this year $1.36 and $1.06.

The government report showed that Illinois farmers had 8 percent more corn on hand January 1 than they had a year before. But farm stocks in many of the cash-corn counties may have been little or no larger than they were last year.

Corn yields per acre were about the same, or smaller, in 1958 than in 1957 in several cash-corn counties. Among these were Lee, LaSalle, Livingston, Iroquois, McLean, Ford, Logan, DeWitt, and Champaign counties. Total corn production in 41 central, eastern, and northern counties was only 3 percent larger in 1958 than in 1957.

Disappearance. The apparent rate of disappearance of corn is much faster this year than in 1957-58. According to USDA estimates, disappearance during the October-December quarter was 996 million bushels, 24 percent more than 12 months before.

More corn is being used this year because the crop is widely spread over the country, and numbers of grain-consuming livestock are up sharply.

The heavy marketings of hogs during the winter showed that farmers were pouring corn into the hog feeders. According to official estimates, farmers are now feeding about 15 percent more hogs than they were a year ago. And some farmers are making their hogs heavier than they did last year.

After hogs, poultry rank second as consumers of corn. The number of layers on farms is up about 3 percent from a year ago. Growers are producing 10 to 15 percent more broilers than they were at this time last year. And it appears that turkey production will be increased by a few percent.

In January, farmers were fattening 11 percent more cattle for market than they were 12 months before. These cattle are heavier, too, thus requiring more feed per pound of gain. Average slaughter weights of steers have been up about 50 pounds from 1958 levels.

Exports and CCC sales. Sales of corn by the CCC from October 1 through February amounted to 93 million bushels, compared to 87 million a year earlier.

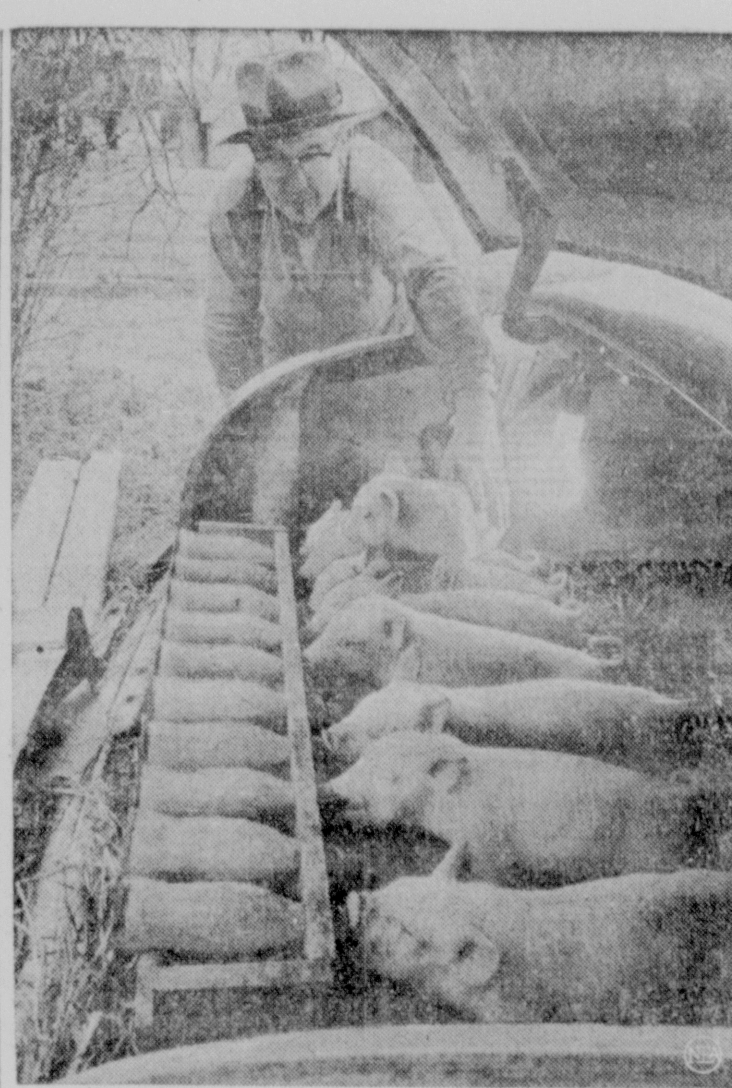

Exports of corn from last October 1 through February were about 85 million bushels, practically the same as 12 months earlier.

The next change in the price support level for corn will be up, not down as in 1958. The minimum price support level for the 1959 crop will be $1.12 a bushel, compared with $1.06 at the present time. And, if growing conditions are no better than average, the production of feed grains will be smaller in 1959 than in 1958, in spite of some increase in corn acreage.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

We expect to, and generally do, weigh off more livestock gain from straight grass pastures than from grass-legume mixtures. However, this does not mean that grass pastures have no value. They can be used to supplement grass-legumes for grazing. Nitrated grass pastures may furnish some of our earliest grazing.

Tremendous Carrying Capacity

In the spring of 1957, 30 acres of nitrated grass on the Station carried 74 yearling steers for 28 days, from April 8 to May 6. During this period the steers gained at the rate of 1.25 pounds a head daily. However, it was fortunate that we had grass-legume mixtures to fall back on after this spring flush on nitrated grass. For the rest of the grazing season, the carrying capacity of the nitrated grass dropped to about one steer an acre, and average daily gains fell below one pound.

Grass-Legume Consistent

Thirty acres of pasture with the same grasses as the nitrated grass pastures, but with legumes in addition, started producing average daily gains of 1.33 pounds and never fell below 1.25 pounds at any period throughout the summer. At no time were the grass-legume mixtures stocked at a rate of fewer than 1½ steers an acre.

Per-Acre Gains Higher

The grass-legume mixtures produced 100 pounds more beef on each of the 30 acres than did the nitrated grass pastures. The per-acre gains for the 168-day-period grazing season totaled 326 pounds for grass-legumes and 227 pounds for the nitrated grass.

U.I. Exhibit: Feed Handling Of The Future

A single full-sized automatic feeding setup will grind, mix and deliver three different livestock rations via high-pressure pneumatic conveyor at the 1959 Farm and Home Festival.

Visitors to the University of Illinois Stock Pavilion April 2, 3 and 4 will see how such a system could furnish rations for cattle, hogs and chickens, all at the touch of a button, says H. B. Puckett, USDA agricultural engineer in charge of the display.

Use of one automatic feeding system to feed several kinds of livestock will help to make the automatic equipment pay its way on more Illinois farms, Puckett observes. An automatic feed-handling system can run 24 hours a day, if necessary.

The high-pressure pneumatic conveyor in the festival exhibit is especially suited for carrying ground feed to several different locations. This system uses air pressure to force ground feed through metal tubing no bigger than a 50-cent piece.

With this system the tubing can bend around corners or run underground or overhead to put ground feed where it is needed. A simple shutoff valve sends the feed to the right place.

The pneumatic conveyor is still too expensive for farm installations. But agricultural engineers expect that the device may some day see wide use in automatic feed-handling design.

Communism, Inc.

One of the stock bogies of communism has always been the top-hatted capitalist millionaire, usually portrayed as stepping on the backs of defenseless poor.

Recently we got a little inside slant on how it is with Russia's Communist leaders in the Kremlin. And they're not exactly roughing it on a bare pad along with their "fellow workers" in the proletarian vineyards.

The House un-American Activities Committee heard testimony on the subject from one Petr Deriabin, once No. 3 man in the secret police which guards top Russians. He's the highest-ranking Soviet official ever to defect to the West.

He says men like the late Joseph Stalin and "Comrade" Khrushchev live better than American millionaires. The big difference is that over here everyone knows who the rich boys are and how they live. Russian citizens haven't the faintest idea how luxurious a life their bosses lead.

Maybe we ought to start calling the Kremlin the Home of the Secret Millionaires. It would be fun to get a look at the "people's vault box" where they hide the stuff.

Fruits Of Complacency

The polio story in America is beginning to shape up as one of the most baffling in our modern history.

Thus far in 1959 the total of paralytic polio cases in this country is 55 per cent ahead of the comparable 1958 period.

The number of killed and crippled from this disease in 1958 was, at the same time, 24 per cent over the low 1957 level.

The tragic, stunning thing about these figures is that they are unnecessary. In the Salk vaccine we have the weapon that could win—was winning—the war against polio.

From 1954 to 1957, the toll of dead or crippled from this ailment dropped from 18,300 to 2,500. But this remarkable progress has now been arrested, and reversed.

Why? Not because a preventive does not exist, but because millions of people, including many parents with children at the vulnerable ages, have not taken advantage of the Salk vaccine.

More than 14 million under the age of 20 have had no Salk shots at all. Another nearly 11 million have had less than the three shots considered adequate protection.

According to Surgeon General LeRoy Burney, interviewed recently by Scripps-Howard reporter John Troan, it is this unvaccinated group that now is being hit hard by the resurgence of polio.

On top of this, there are some 32.5 million adults in the still-susceptible 20-to-40 age bracket who are unprotected against the ravages of this disease.

Since the vaccine is 85 to 90 per cent effective, the great majority of persons who contract polio have no one but themselves or their parents to blame.

Is it for this result that the "mothers marched on polio," that Dr. Jonas Salk and others toiled endless hours in the laboratory, that millions were amassed for research?

Rising polio figures are a strange way to celebrate medicine's brilliant advance against this disease.

up my interview.

Why is it, I'd asked through a haze of wondrous blue eyes and a 1,000-watt smile, that so many beauty contest winners fade from sight after they're signed to movie studio contracts?

Miss Howell—honey blonde, 5 feet 6, 36-23-35½—was voted "Miss Beaver City," La., then "Miss Louisiana" and finally, in the Miss Universe pageant at Long Beach last summer, "Miss United States."

The Army moving in fast, our conversational target managed: "Many times a studio will sign a girl because of the publicity she is getting. She's of value as long as she's receiving publicity. Both benefit whether she can act or not."

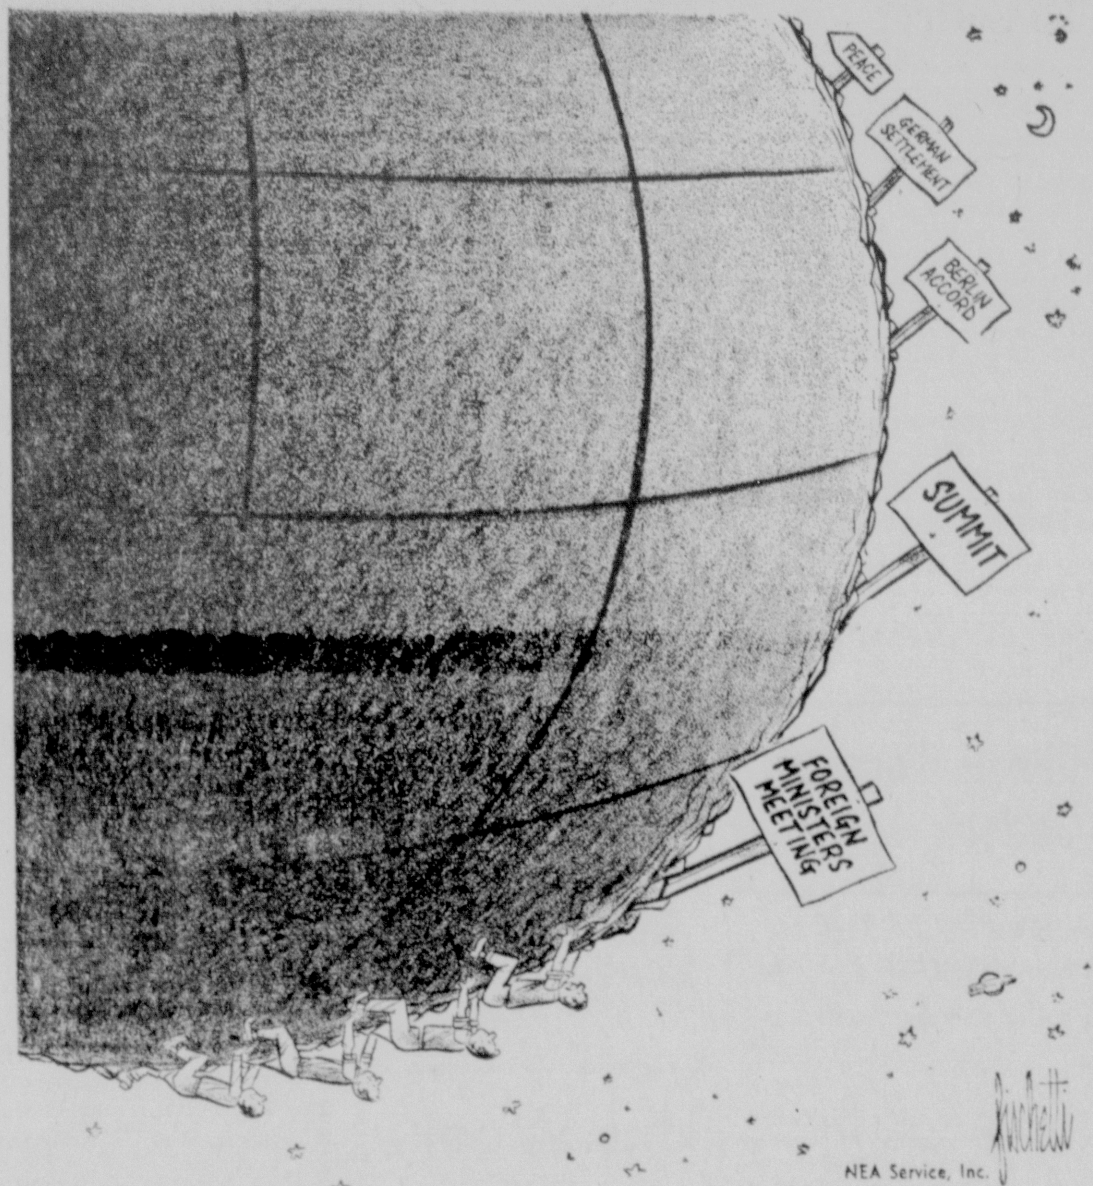

Firing questions and falling back, I learned: Miss Howell is 19, an oil driller's daughter with both Irish and Cherokee in her ancestry. A year ago she was a secretary and college student in Shreveport. She has appeared in four "Maverick" shows, one "77 Sunset Strip," and one "Cheyenne."

She's engaged to Paul La Cava, a building contractor and Air Force reserve flier. They haven't set a wedding date. She lives with her parents. She enjoys being Miss United States, "but I'm looking forward to being a Mrs., too."

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Although King Hussein of Jordan is huddling with all the top government big shots, his visit to Washington is still considered unofficial.

An official visit is one where the president formally invites another head of state to visit this country. The formal invitation calls for the king to meet the dignitary at the airport, toss a big dinner in his honor and put him up at Blair House.

Like and the State Department have been so busy lately setting up official visits for El Salvador's President Jose Maria Lemus, Ireland's President Sean T. O'Kelly and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan that they didn't have time to arrange one for Hussein. So the King got the pink carpet treatment.

Vice President Nixon met him at the airport, Jordan's ambassador put him up at the embassy and he treated him to lunch instead of supper.

Biggest Washington food sensation is shrimp from El Salvador. The shrimp were first served here at a reception for visiting El Salvador President Jose Maria Lemus. Since then the embassy has been swamped with phone calls from hostesses who are anxious to find out how to purchase them.

They look like small filets and are almost an inch thick. Nibbling on them is taboo. Salvadorians insist that the only way to enjoy a native shrimp is to stuff the whole thing in your mouth.

One Washington hostess privately confesses that she has a special reason for wanting to order the mammoth seafood. She explains, "Serving those shrimp is the best way I know to gag a boring guest and make him like it."

But as so often happens at a dinner party—even one given by the Irish—the favorite food turned out to be French. It was Quiche Lorraine, a baked concoction of egg custard, bacon, chives, onions and melted cheese. The Irish call it French Pizza.

WASHINGTON FEMALE intelligence sources reveal that lipstick, pancake make-up, petroleum jelly and rouge will soon become obsolete as facial beautifiers. They report that the U.S. cosmetics industry will soon launch the Lunar Look as its contribution to the Space Age.

It will also require them to paint each fingernail on one hand a different color. Nails on the other hand will be painted all one color.

The World Today

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress, having hardly worked up a good sweat over what it accomplished so far this year, has now gone home for its usual Easter breather.

Its work to date is about par for the course. It really has to start rolling when it returns in April.

By now the biggest issues of the first three months of 1959 have become pretty clear: inflation, the American economy in general, defense spending, and the Berlin crisis.

Congress has begun an extensive investigation of what makes the economy tick. It has held extensive and necessary hearings on many subjects, granted Hawaii statehood, prepared some legislation for later action, and voted on money bills.

Both houses of Congress stand firmly behind President Eisenhower on the Berlin crisis which the Soviets created. They have given him some suggestions. He hasn't said much except that he won't budge an inch on Berlin.

Nevertheless, discussion has been intense and will continue right up to and through the summit conference next summer—if there is one.

For months now Eisenhower has been hammering against the danger of inflation and seems to have singled out the steel industry for special attention. He has addressed his appeals both to steel management and to the steel workers union which soon will be asking me wages.

He has cautioned both sides—since steel prices affect the whole economy—against upsetting the applecart: labor by asking for too much money; management by using higher wages as an excuse to raise steel prices.

But while he's been warning steel to be careful, inflation has been increasing in other industries and it is questionable whether workers and management in the steel industry will stand still while prices go up around them.

This week the government's monthly report on living costs came down.

Practically every spending category except food went up. Prices for housing and most fuels, went up in February. So did the cost of medical care, gasoline, and such items as toilet goods, haircuts, household appliances, TV sets, radio and movie admissions.

Another argument bound to continue: the Democrats contend that Eisenhower, in his desire to show a balanced budget after three consecutive years of deficits, wants to spend too little on defense.

The Republicans—but not all of them—rally around Eisenhower's rejoinder that he is in the best position to know what defense this country needs.

What seems the biggest illusion of 1959 is Eisenhower's insistence that the budget can and must be balanced in the way he proposed. He figures that if the country in fiscal 1959 spends only 77 billion dollars it can take in in revenue $77,100,000,000. His figuring is amazingly paper-thin.

He is not estimating that revenue figure on the basis of taxes already on the books.

He is asking Congress to get revenue up to that amount by raising 600 million more in revenue through boosting postal rates and the gasoline tax. Since Congress almost certainly won't, that leaves him about 600 million dollars shy to start with.

But the crowning blow was struck this week when tax experts working for Congress figured revenue would be at least a billion dollars below Eisenhower's 77-billion-dollar spending budget.

Couple that with the fact the Democratic-run Congress seems bent on voting more money than Eisenhower asked for in his budget—on the grounds that he did not ask for enough—and his budget-balancing looks long gone.

But, like the Berlin crisis, the economy, and inflation, this argument over the budget will go on and on.

Firm Patience Is Best Way

Around Stubborn Oldster

BY MARIE DARR

What's behind that "just plain stubbornness" grandma or grandpa often shows that, incidentally, can drive the younger members of the family wild?

In the opinion of Dr. Alfred K. Bochner, assistant professor of psychiatry at Western Reserve Medical School in Cleveland, Ohio, this is often just a rather pathetic fight against a "growing awareness of flagging powers."

"We can't change this," said Dr. Bochner. "But we can give these old people reassurance and maybe some constructive chances to be stubborn."

"For instance, we can urge them—sometimes very much against their will—to exercise to the point where they really are making an effort."

If an old person insists he can't sleep at night, and maybe walks the floor to prove it, here is a Bochner prescription:

"Be concerned, but not too concerned. Tell grandpa he can take sleeping pills for three nights, but after that, he must fight it out. Tell him to try staying up one night. He will sleep the next night."

Grandpa has no appetite?

"Nearly every old person has happy memories of some food he enjoyed when he was young," said this psychiatrist. "It's worth it to try some of these dishes, even at the risk of not giving him a perfectly balanced diet."

Sometimes younger members of the family must be eagle-eyed and firm guardians of old people's health.

"Often older people won't complain when they are actually sick," said Dr. Bochner. "Or they refuse to have needed surgery because 30 or 40 years ago, people who lived through an operation sometimes died the second or fourth day after it."

"I had an emergency call recently from the family of an 80-year-old who had fallen on the ice and for 12 hours had refused to let his family call a doctor. He had broken his hip and had done himself real harm by the delay."

"So don't count on grandpa or grandma to know when he or she needs a doctor. Use your own judgment. It can save everyone concerned a lot of grief."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

The Living Christ

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The Easter Story, like the Christmas Story, is old, yet ever new.

The seasons are not the same in all parts of the world, but spring in Palestine is like spring in many of us have known it. The ever-recurring springtime of nature has been an inevitable symbol of springtime in religion and the soul, as associated with the Resurrection of Jesus.

The tendency is to think of the Resurrection as an event of the past, in the first Easter. Its significance, however, is in terms of eternal life, and as a great oratorio expresses it, "Because He lives, we also shall live."

I should like to think of the Resurrection and Easter in terms of an ever-living and present Christ, a challenging Christ.

He meets us with a message of ideals and values, and the teaching and example of a way of life. How we attain and manifest it is the only true evidence that we have "been with Jesus."

To believe in an event, even in the event of the Resurrection of Jesus, is less than to believe in a person. And to believe in a person is less than to have a personal relation to that person. In this case, to have Jesus' example and His teaching as the motivating power on one's life, is the important thing.

In Russia for long years Easter was celebrated with an immensity and popular outburst never perhaps equalled anywhere else or at any other time.

Peasant greeted peasant with the enthusiastic "Christ is risen," and all was touched with Easter as a great peasant. But how little Easter in its resurrection power affect Russia in its Marxist days. And how sadly has it all passed in Communist times.

There is a song that sums about the world "waiting for the sun—music education."

I should say that what the world most needs is a resurrection from its sin and evil to the life of righteousness and truth.

The Resurrection is the shining beacon that beckons the world toward that life, if it will but heed.

We didn't agree about many important things, but I think we did agree about this, which to me is the grave issue of Berlin and Germany: ought to be settled by negotiations and not force. And that is really the point.

EDWARD FORD, Trezevant, Tenn. Says: "Dixie Baby Pig Creep is the best feed for baby pigs I have ever fed and the same goes for Pig Creep. I think a farmer that is short of home-grown feed as I was in '58 will never regret buying Dixie's 15% Hog Grower and Dixie's 12% Hog Finisher, instead of buying corn and supplement."

"7.3 lbs. of Dixie per pound of gain"

GLEN S. KINDER, Oakridge, Mo. Says: "My feed conversion on the Dixie Program was only 2.3 lbs. of Dixie per pound of gain. I have switched away from Dixie Chick Starter twice now, but I continually find that Dixie does the best job of all, so I switch back to Dixie."

"98% Livability"

GRIMM BROS., Pacific, Mo. Says: "We have 43 of our calves on Dixie Nursing Feed and Dixie Calf Starter and we are getting exceptionally good growth. Now let's talk about livability—we're proud of our record on Dixie. Out of our last 100 calves, we lost only two, 98% livability. They tell us the national average is only about 75%."

Rocket Patrol Serial—

Home Sweet Earth

By Rip Barnsdall

Synopsis—Bob Elliott, now the director of the Rocket Patrol, has been preparing his first speech to give to the graduating class of the Academy.

Chapter 2

The huge auditorium was packed with visitors, parents and the thousand members of the graduating class as Bob Elliott stepped to the speaker's platform.

The little hums of conversation that had been flitting back and forth in the visitor's gallery stopped as Elliott began to speak. They were all attentive for they knew that the man in front of them would know of what he spoke.

"Members of the graduating class, parents, and friends, I am honored to speak to you today. Thirty years ago I sat in an auditorium and heard a graduation speech.

"I can still remember the closing words of Director Handler when he said, 'Remember above all things, to remain humble, for as you go into space you will realize what a big place it really is.'

"Those words, said over thirty years ago to a graduating Rocket Patrol class, are just as true today. 'Thirty years ago we had begun to explore the moon. We were just venturing into space. Then we explored Mars, the moons of Jupiter, Saturn, and finally Venus.

"Now we have gone to the limits of our own solar system. We have explored millions of miles in space, yet we have only gone a speck into outer space.

"When I think of other galaxies, I am always reminded of the ant. An ant, upon the surface of our earth, represents approximately the amount of space we have traveled. The rest of the earth around the ant represents the space we have not conquered as yet.

Space Now No Joke

"The Rocket Patrol were taken somewhat as a joke fifty years or more ago. 'There go those space happy guys," or "What's the matter, isn't our earth good enough for them?" were a few of the common expressions I heard concerning them when I was a youngster.

"But the Rocket Patrol, like anything else that was a little out of the ordinary, deserved criticism until it has proven itself. And it did through the years.

"Who can deny that living conditions on our earth are better because of the weather stations on the moon? Then science has given us those wonderful dehydrated plants that are raised on the moon and on Mars.

"Living space for some of our overcrowded population areas has been opened up on Mars and on Venus. I could go on and on with the list, but you are already familiar with them.

"There are many names that will go down in the history of mankind, and the historian will have to make a distinction between two kinds. Those who made history on earth, and those who made history away from earth.

"One of the presidents of the United States, Dwight Eisenhower, helped start the ball rolling for the history away from earth when he approved the first earth satellite project.

Ajax's Adventure

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 2: Smart Horse
Across the street and into the next block they wandered. Sure enough, beside a shed lay a great heap of fodder.

The pig rooted into it gladly while Ajax nosed higher for tender young leaves. On top worked a plump brown hen scratching for small seeds.

"We are getting our own breakfasts," the visitors confided. So am I," she said, then suddenly she raised her head. "Do you hear that? They are calling me."

"Chick, chick, chick!" She raised her wings to fly home over their heads.

People Waking
"People are waking up," he told his new acquaintance, then he felt a kind hand on his head reaching for his long white forelock.

"Come home, trick horse," his master said almost tripping over the half hidden pig. "I forgot to close the outside door to your door. This food does not belong to us."

The little pig dodged through six feet now. "Maybe they want me at home too. 'I'll go with you. 'First on one side then on the other it scampered nimbly.

"Why should some one else eat my breakfast?" In a last rush it squeezed between two boards to look into its trough.

Further on the clover leaves were wide open now, nor were they frightened since Ajax' master led him.

"Moo—moo" commented the two cows. "You must have had a light breakfast,—coffee and rolls perhaps,—or Washington Pie?"

Ajax arched his neck and walked faster to enter his own doorway.

"My! Isn't he stylish!" one stay-at-home cow said. "Not so very," the other observed. "Did you see those burrs tangled on his feet and snarled in his tail?"

Ajax' master fastened the door on both sides, while his white horse ate a breakfast of corn beside the manger filled with Timothy hay.

"Now I have to get all those cockleburrs out!" Ajax quivered when they scratched and pulled, but he stood quietly.

"Why did I forget to fasten that outside latch?" his owner continued. "A smart horse should have a smart master."

What Do You Think?

By Jerry Lawless

Importance Of Education

Today, in this busy world of ours, we are finding it more and more important to have a good education.

With each day passing, man is gaining vast amounts of knowledge about the world around himself. We certainly should see to it that we have a proper education ourselves in order to pass this knowledge on to our children, who in turn, will be prepared for their education.

The entire knowledge that the future generations will possess depends greatly upon our ability to do this.

Educate Girls?

A question might be asked: "What degree of education should we and, in turn, our children have, and should both men and women have the same amount of it?"

In "Grandmother's day," it was not too important for women to seek a good education, so people said, as it was for men. It was thought that the woman's place was in the home and that the man should earn the living, and make the scientific advances. Even then, though, some women dared to break with this and pursued careers of their own choosing.

Now, with some exceptions, women hold as many different jobs as men do. Therefore, it is reasonable to assume that women should have as much education as men receive.

Different Today
In "Grandmother's day" also, most men finished high school if they had a chance, but the number of women finishing was considerably smaller. A man was considered strange if he went on to college, and it was certainly a rarity to find a woman in college.

Now, our colleges are busting at the seams with both men and women. Why? Because our rate of progress demands and will keep demanding more and more engineers, doctors, scientists, and many other skilled persons.

This, then, is why we Americans strive for a better education for ourselves and our children and why we stress the importance of education.

Do you think education is important?

Winchester Woman Makes Easter Egg Tree

Mrs. Orin V. Duncan of Winchester, an avid collector of antiques, is pictured above with her Easter Egg Tree, origin of which dates back centuries. Many beautiful designs adorn the hollow egg shells hanging from the white painted branches of the tree. The boat shaped container is filled with decorated eggs. Mrs. Duncan adds to the setting for the tree with an Easter nest containing more eggs, simulated tulips and downy chicks and ceramic bunnies.

Mrs. Duncan tells in detail how others may make an Easter Egg Tree, adding historic facts concerning this ancient custom now near extinction.

I have always been interested in things of the past. Many quaint customs, whose roots are hidden beyond the realm of memory, are revealed in this quest.

Somewhere I came across a reference to the Easter Egg Tree. Try as I would I could find no further mention of it. Without definite information I resolved to build myself an Easter Egg Tree as I thought it might have been.

The first real information came from an antiques publication in which the author described the "Easter Egg Tree" as a pagan custom of the Norsemen, brought to this country by the Swedes and the Moravians.

Eggs were decorated with each family keeping secret their design for the current year. The Ukrainians, famous for geometrical design; Polish, painters of flowers and miniatures such as the Last Supper, the Pennsylvania Dutch, often represented home or farm life with chickens, trees, houses, flowers, and the human figure. These are either painted or scratched with a needle or sharp instrument.

The Easter Egg tree is barren of leaves and may be left natural or painted as one desires. It is then hung with the decorated eggs as a symbol of fertility. Under Christians the eggs symbolize life and resurrection.

Kept Year To Year
The eggs are treasured from year to year, and used over and over, just as our Christmas decorations. The Easter Egg Tree is to Easter what the Christmas tree is to Christmas. The egg tree is the older.

Mental Health Topic Before Murrayville Club

Mrs. Walter Hanback was hostess March 25 to the Murrayville Woman's club attended by twelve members and one guest, Mrs. Laurence Hembrough. The meeting opened with the pledge to the flag led by the hostess and the hymn, "Christ the Lord is Risen Today," led by the music chairman, Mrs. M. J. Benscoter.

Roll call was answered with each giving a fact concerning mental illness. The president, Mrs. Charles Wilson, was in charge during the business session with the secretary's report by Mrs. Russell Devore and Mrs. Edward Tendick, treasurer pro tem, giving the financial report.

The program chairman, Mrs. James E. Symons, presented the mental health chairman, Mrs. William R. Wade, who gave the program on mental illness and its treatment. The speaker covered mental illness as a handicap to children; the illness in general and the average present day treatment and outmoded method being used in most of the state institutions. Several better institutions were mentioned by Mrs. Wade in giving an overall picture of this national concern.

A discussion was held concerning Gifts for the State Hospital. Articles will be picked up by Mrs. S. B. Robinson who will deliver same to the hospital.

The collect repeated by the group closed the meeting. During the social hour the hostess served a delicious refreshments course following a spring and Easter motif in pastel colors. Guests enjoyed cream cheese sandwiches, molded ribbon salad and Easter trimmed cupcakes, coffee, mints and nuts.

The next meeting will be several days early on Friday, April 10, at 8 p.m. Henry Simmons of Jacksonville.

My tree had a simple beginning. I saved only the whitest of eggs. These were emptied by first puncturing the large end with the point of an embroidery scissors. Next a tiny hole was cut and the egg shaken vigorously into a bowl or jar until it was emptied, then rinsed and set aside. I have been admonished to blow my eggs, but this necessitates a hole on each end, weakening the shell and resulting in much breakage. When a considerable number had been emptied, I dyed them various shades using food color. What was left was stored in a jar to be used over and over, as the shells piled up.

Uses Greeting Cards
My penchant for saving colorful greeting cards gave me a real decorative source. The indispensable embroidery scissors are used to make the tiny cut-outs, many so small that they must be applied with tweezers.

To my pictures I added ribbon, bits of lace, tiny rosebuds and forget-me-nots from a boutonniere, even bits of yarn, a few sequins, a little glitter, as well as paint for a little free lance artist.

Creating the designs is an intensely absorbing and satisfying activity, which challenges the artistic capabilities of the individual. These were applied with a latex glue. The colors range from pure white through shades of blue, pink, lavender, purple, yellow, green, and a few very deep shades. However, my taste runs to pastels, and mostly I adhere to these.

Decorations Simple

Decorations are as simple as a band of ribbon with a tailored bow, a bow with a miniature rosebud, snowflakes from paper dolls, crosses made from ribbon or glitter, designs with sequins, bluebirds, robins, kittens and flowers of all descriptions. One of the prettiest is red roses on a pure white background, topped by a red ribbon. Purple violets on green and white backgrounds are also most attractive.

The robins and bluebirds symbolize spring, but I haven't forgotten the different seasons and holidays. There are the bounty of fruits and pumpkins for Thanksgiving, holly and bells for Christmas, hearts and tiny bells for Valentine, rabbits and colorful eggs for Easter, and of course my birthday, St. Patrick's day, with sham-

Need Graceful Tree
Finding a graceful tree was a difficult feat, and I am planning on visiting the woods for a better replacement. Unhappily the most graceful ones have too few boughs or are too weak to hold the eggs. At Easter season, the tree is easily decorated by hanging the eggs from the boughs by means of threads, attached to the decorations. When the display is over, the eggs are removed, to be safely stored in the same manner as Christmas decorations.

Egg From 1881
What I hold in my hand above is a reproduction of an Easter gift of 1881, designed to lay on a marble topped table on Easter morning, just 78 years ago. A blue cord has been run through the egg, ending in a tassel. It is decorated with the dates 1881 and 1959, and an Easter lily.

The shredded paper nest in front of the tree shows a downy paper chick emerging from an egg. Other eggs are scattered about the nest, and there are clumps of tulips blooming nearby. The tulips are paper cut-outs, showing another use for paper. These decorations are all available to anyone who will look about for them.

Good Therapy
All of this took countless hours to produce. However, I did much of it while I was recovering from an illness, and I can recommend it as something to cause one to forget his aches and problems. Although I have 128 eggs, I shall keep adding others from time to time.

I thought my efforts were too insignificant to show until a group of women, seeing a bowl of the eggs in my kitchen, began selecting favorites and urged me to share my handwork with others.

Now I find through Hobbies magazine that a number of libraries and museums about the country are featuring Easter Egg Trees for the public, to the delight of both children and adults. Perhaps this will set a trend in this community to have egg trees as well as Christmas trees.

Elizabeth Taylor Embraces Judaism

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor has surprised Hollywood by embracing Judaism.

It is the faith of her late husband, Mike Todd, and of singer Eddie Fisher, expected to be her next husband.

Friends and associates of the 27-year-old English-born actress were unaware that she had been studying Judaism the last six months.

Miss Taylor told a newsman she was raised as a Christian Scientist but had been interested in Judaism ever since her marriage to Todd.

Her conversion was announced Thursday night by Rabbi Max Nussbaum of Hollywood's Temple Israel after simple ceremonies bringing Miss Taylor into the Reform Branch of Judaism.

Miss Taylor was unavailable for comment.

Meditations for Lent

BULLETINS FROM IMMORTALITY
BY THE REV. EDWIN T. DAHLBERG, D.D.
President of National Council of the Churches of Christ in U.S.A.
Pastor of the Delmar Baptist Church, St. Louis, Mo.
(Written for NEA Service)

Matthew 28:5-6, "But the angel said to the women, 'Do not be afraid; for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here; for he has risen, as he said. Come, see the place where he lay.'"

Emily Dickinson once wrote a poem in which she said, "The only news to me is bulletins all day."

From Immortality.

What a refreshing thought! All day long we listen to news bulletins over the radio and TV concerning robberies, fires, murders, highway accidents, world wars and revolutions. But do we ever listen to a news bulletin from Immortality?

Easter is such a news bulletin. It reminds us that a message has come to us from across the visible borders of life: "CHRIST IS RISEN!"

These are undoubtedly the mightiest words in history. From them have come all the most glorious aspects of our Christian civilization that we know—the Christian church itself, with all its rich variety of denominations, churches, missions, and cathedrals; all that we possess of Christian music and art, in the way of paintings, organs, choirs, church bells, hymns, and anthems; the writings of the New Testament, and all that is immortal in Christian literature; our Christian homes, hospitals, schools, and democratic ideals; above all, the millions of redeemed lives that rejoice in their deliverance from sin, death, and frustration. We are not unmindful of the contribution of other religions and philosophies. But the words, "Christ is risen," have shaken life to its very foundations, and taken empires of their hinges.

HALFORD E. LUCCOCK TELLS THE STORY of a man who saw the Grand Canyon of the Colorado for the first time. Standing in awe before this stupendous spectacle he said reverently, "Something must have happened here." This deep cut was not caused by a wandering Indian dragging a stick along the ground.

Neither can we attribute the mighty effects of Christ's resurrection in human history to the imagination of a few bewildered disciples. The impact of Easter upon the life of mankind is too significant to be explained away. Before the empty tomb of Jesus we must say, too, "something happened here."

Something is still happening. There are more missionaries going out to all nations of the earth with the good news of Christ today than at any time in the history of Christendom. Here at home, more churches are being built than ever before. Why should this be? This would not happen if Jesus of Nazareth were only a dead carpenter buried near some Galilean shore.

SOMETHING CAN HAPPEN to you—something that is nothing short of a resurrection in your own life. Listen again to the words of Jonathan Edwards, one of the greatest minds ever to appear on this continent. Speaking at the time of the Great Awakening in New England during the 18th century he said,

"Christ is not in the heart of the saint as a dead Saviour that does nothing. In the heart where Christ is, there He lives, and exerts himself after the power of that endless life which He received at His resurrection."

However bowed down you may be in sorrow, however helpless you may feel yourself to be in your present circumstances of life, listen once again to the Bulletin from Immortality: "CHRIST IS RISEN!" For this is the news of victory. The decisive battle has been won. Christ has abolished death, and brought life and immortality to light. Why not enter that life today?

PRAYER: "For all the saints who from their labors rest, who Thine by faith before the world confessed, Thy Name, O Jesus, be forever blessed, Alleluia! Alleluia!"

The Senior Class of Jacksonville High School will present "The Adorable Spendthrift," written by Roy Bryant, at the JHS auditorium Thursday and Friday evenings of this week at 8 o'clock.

The annual class play is a hilarious comedy concerning the results of sudden wealth and is directed by Miss Fergene Goddin.

The Mason family includes Mrs. Mason, a social-climber; J.C., a carpenter at heart; and their children, Irene and Hardy.

Hardy has just inherited the sum of $300,000 from his aunt. After buying a new house and setting the family up in society, Hardy makes a trip to France. There he meets the adorable Sari. They fall in love immediately and become engaged. Hardy returns home while Sari goes to her home in Belgium to settle her affairs. Mrs. Mason and Irene are very upset about the engagement. They expect a "foreigner" to endanger their society rating. There are many trials in the Mason household throughout the play and the promise of an enjoyable evening seems very good.

Class advisor is Mrs. Gladys Rust; assistant advisor, Miss Helen Richards; and prompter, Donna Woodruff.

Members of the cast are: Walters, J. H. Morrison; Ellie, Carole Williams; Dannie, Judy Baldwin; J. C. ### What Happened To Pontius Pilate After He Fulfilled His Easter Week Destiny?

By TOM HENSLAW
"And Pilate said unto them (the priests and Pharisees): Ye have a watch; go your way and make it as sure as ye can."

"So they went, and made the sepulchre sure, sealing the stone, and setting a watch."

And that, in the words of the evangelist Matthew, is the last scriptural notice taken of one of the most controversial and least known figures in the Easter story—The Roman procurator Pontius Pilate.

Was Pilate a good man or bad? The Bible leaves the reader a wide choice: You can sympathize with him in his weakness; you can despise him for the same fault; you can admire him for what seems to be his sympathy for Jesus.

What happened to Pilate after he fulfilled his Easter week destiny? About all that can be said for sure is that he left his post in Judea in the year 36, ostensibly recalled by the emperor.

But, like nature, tradition, legend and outright fiction all abhor vacuum. So, with a little diligent reading in the literature called "New Testament Apocrypha," you can find out what may, or could, have happened to Pilate. One apocryphal account has the Emperor Tiberius, angered by the worldwide darkness and earthquakes that accompanied the crucifixion, recalling Pilate to Rome for trial and condemnation.

Another story, equally apocryphal, goes like this: "The ailing Tiberius hears of Jesus' healing miracles and sends for him. The Roman emissary arrives in the Holy Land after Jesus is crucified."

Instead, Veronica — she of the veil—goes to Rome and cures the emperor's sickness with a portrait of Jesus. Tiberius sends for Pilate and sentences him to death. But Pilate cheats the executioner by stabbing himself with his own dagger.

The Professor's two no-trump opening was just the least bit shaded but North's raise to game had a trifle in reserve and if everything happened to work he might actually have made 12 tricks.

As it was he made nine tricks with everything wrong. He ducked the first heart after East played the three spot, won the second and played ace and another club. West was in and led a third heart which South won. Now the diamond finesse lost but since East did not have a heart to lead back South made one spade, two hearts and three tricks in each minor suit for a total of nine.

"Why didn't you try the diamond finesse right away?" asked the student.

"I wasn't after overtricks," replied his mentor. "By abandoning the club finesse and playing the way I did it did not matter who held the king of clubs. As long as East did not hold five hearts my contract was entirely safe and I was sure that was the case. Remember, East played the three of hearts on the first lead of the suit."

XXIX "Please, dear," his wife said. "You're tiring yourself."

"I'm all right," Ackerman said. "Leave me alone." Immediately he patted her cheek. "I'm sorry, Clare. I didn't mean to speak sharply."

She stroked his hand. "I said, 'Frankly, I have no ideas. You hired me. Am I still working for you?'"

"Yes, I'll clear it with Logan," Clarissa Ackerman looked distressed. "But, dear, Logan is the general manager."

"Not for long," he said grimly. "After the board meets, I'll be the general manager. And Logan knows it. He'll go along with me, in spite of his fears."

I went out. Mrs. Ackerman called. "Mr. Bennett—just a moment."

I faced her as she came out of the room. "Thank you so much," she said softly. "For treating me as you did yesterday afternoon. I—I deserved it. And it made me realize that I've caused my own unhappiness. If I had thought a little of Howard's happiness, I—she lowered her head. "This is—embarrassing. But I wanted you to know. If I was not attractive to you, how could I expect to be attractive to my husband? It's been my fault. Today, we had a talk, and..."

She looked up at me and smiled. "Do I sound like a soap opera?"

"Not at all," I was embarrassed, too. "Thanks for returning my hat."

The gate man with the toothbrush mustache said, "See, Mr. Bennett, I'm sorry, but Mr. Masters left instructions not to admit you to the factory any more."

I called Logan Masters' house. He answered and I said, "This is Bennett."

"Yes?" he said coldly.

"Mr. Ackerman told me to continue with the job. I'm at the plant now, but the gate man won't let me in—on your orders, he says."

"That is correct. And Howard Ackerman has no voice in the matter."

"He seems to think differently. Has he contacted you?"

"Yes, through Mrs. Ackerman. She called me a short time ago and conveyed his request that you continue. I refused. I'm still general manager."

"Yes, sir," I decided to break my promise to Ginny. "Why didn't you tell me about that threatening note you received?"

"How do you know about that, Bennett?"

I regretted that he no longer called me Jim. I said, "That doesn't matter. What does matter is that you allowed it to alarm you unduly."

"Do you know what the note said?"

"Yes, sir, I do."

"And you expect me not to be alarmed when the safety of my daughter is involved, not to mention serious labor trouble?"

"Listen, Mr. Masters, you can't shrug this thing off. It won't go away by itself. I'm involved, too, and I'd like to do a little more investigating. Will you please tell your man here that I may enter the plant?" I winked at the guard.

"I will not. And I demand that you stop meddling. We can solve our own problems." His phone rang in my ear.

The guard grinned at me. "The old man's tough, isn't he?"

I took out my wallet, removed a $10 bill, folded it lengthwise and waved it gently. "I just want to go inside for maybe 20 minutes. Okay?"

He eyed the ten, struggling with himself. "I dunno," he said.

"Who was it, you mean," the fireman, Vossky, said. "I tell you, that thing gave me a shock when I pulled it out."

"How did he get in there?"

"It must have been Tuesday night," the fireman said. "This is Thursday, and the kiln's on a three-day burning cycle." Both he and the guard looked at me expectantly, as if I was supposed to do something about it.

native country. This culminated the troop's work on the world gifts badge. Part of the time Thursday was spent in making baskets in Easter colors which were filled with treats for the occupants of the Lasley Nursing Home.

Brownie Troop No. 16 of South Jacksonville school, Mrs. Walter Derringer and Mrs. Charles Nicholson, leaders, on Wednesday visited the Mahan Dairy and were very courteously shown all operations as well as the milking of the dairy cattle. The girls were very impressed by the fact that each cow of the 75 cows in the herd was named and easily identified by name by the owners.

Intermediate Troop No. 35 of Waverly, Mrs. J. J. Smith, leader, met at the leader's home on February 17. Mrs. Edie Tannahill, a native of Japan was their special guest. The Golden Sunset patrol planned this experience in international friendship, invited Mrs. Tannahill and took charge of the program.

The tea and entertainment for the meeting was planned and carried out by the Blue Eagle patrol. Each girl had a part in supplying and making refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, nuts and tea. They told their guest of the promises and laws of Girl Scouting. All of the girls joined in asking Mrs. Tannahill, whose first name is Hisko, about Japan. The girls appreciated her visit. This completes the international friendship requirement on the second class badge for the Blue Eagles and on the first class badge for the other patrol.

On March 24th the Golden Sunset patrol finished their ping-pong tournament. Delores Eldridge is champion and Mary Ellen Smith, runner-up. This patrol held a sewing-club for their seamstress badge and worked on the completion of the personal health badge.

The Blue Eagle patrol completed work on an original play portraying Scout work and presented it to the other patrol and the leaders. Most of this meeting was held on the lawn. Shirley Stewart, reporter.

Mrs. Martin Newman, Jacksonville Neighborhood chairman, entertained the leaders of the neighborhood Thursday morning at her home, No. 4 Sunnydale. Leaders of troops at Lafayette, South Jacksonville and Jonny South schools were present. Theme of the meeting was "Progression in the

With the Girl Scouts

All activities this next week in Girl Scout circles will center around the annual cookie sale. Remember that our goal this year is more camping for more girls and a successful cookie sale will assure this. All the money realized from the cookie sale will be spent in this Council. This year we hope to be able to buy a new equipment shed for Camp Shagbark; new sanitary facilities including a garbage pit, more sanitary dishwashing equipment, four new 8' x 10' tents, and additional cook kits. Our plans also include repair to the road and a new sign at the gate.

This is a reminder to all leaders of troops to meet their school or community cookie chairman on the cookie delivery date at their delivery spot.

During the past week the following troops helped Chairman Milton Culbertson of the Cancer Crusade to prepare solicitors' envelopes for the crusade: Intermediate Troop No. 43 of Franklin school, Mrs. W. C. Everett and Mrs. Cecil Cline, leaders; Int. Troop 13 of Jonathan Turner, Mrs. Robert Hemphill, leader; Int. Troop 27 of South Jacksonville school, Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, leader; Int. Troop 24 of Lincoln school, Mrs. Glen Gross and Mrs. Gordon Johnson, leaders; Int. Troop No. 63 of Lafayette school, Mrs. Howard Choate, leader; and Int. Troop No. 36 of Lincoln school, Mrs. Nick Gioscio, leader.

In the April issue of the American Home magazine is the announcement of a sampler for sale which contains the words of the pledge to the flag which can be embroidered to fulfill the requirements for the Girl Scout needlework badge. The sampler comes in a kit with all material needed to complete the sampler furnished including embroidery floss, blue applique patch for the flag and complete directions. It costs $1 and can be obtained from American Home Building, Dept. PSK, Forest Hills, 75, New York. It requires about three weeks for delivery.

Mrs. Edna Mae Lynn and Mrs. Bessie Poor are members of the troop committee for Troop No. 96 of Jefferson school, and their names were omitted in the account of the investiture of the troop last week. Mrs. Robert Reeve is the troop leader.

Brownie Troop No. 19 of Washington school, Mrs. H. C. Womble, leader, this past week made miniature Easter baskets for patients at Oaklawn Sanatorium and filled them with candy. Ten girls in the troop made 40 baskets.
